Caruso, Complete Edition
Astounded Mr. Gompers
Don't Sit, Do Something
Best Breeds Are Mixed

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1921.

"Just issued, the collected works of Enrico Caruso." That announcement, undoubtedly, you will soon receive, issued by the publishers of the great singer's voice. Complete editions are issued after death of a great writer's books. Those complete editions only live the written word, cold at best. Complete libraries of a great musician's voice will be new.

Mr. Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, tells the House Immigration Committee that he was "absolutely astounded to learn that representatives of organized labor in Hawaii had got fifteen hundred dollars from Japanese merchants to help prevent Chinese coolies entering the islands."

Mr. Gompers need not have been absolutely, or partially, astounded. Japanese are intelligent. They have marked the Hawaiian Islands for their own. They know after centuries of experience what it means to compete with Chinese labor. Therefore, they are willing to give organized white workers money to keep out their yellow brethren from China. White workers and white lawmakers might learn from the Japanese contribution to the anti-Chinese fund to keep out ALL Oriental labor.

Certain men, good ball players, poor sports, sold out to gamblers and cheated their followers. They are acquitted, but professional baseball will shut them out.

The shutting out makes little difference. Where you have a sport based on making money, not on love of exercise or admiration for skill, you will have dishonesty.

It would be well for the United States if all baseball players were so thoroughly dishonest as to disgust the public and persuade young men to go out and exercise for themselves, instead of sitting on benches watching somebody else exercise.

There is too much inclination to watch somebody else do it, instead of going out and doing it. That applies to sports, also to politics.

The San Francisco Call in one of its excellent editorials refers to two hundred American soldiers bringing back German wives and children from the Rhine region.

The kindly editorial writer explains that men do not know each other, and says: "Don't criticise the American soldier for marrying an enemy girl; you might have done the same thing."

Don't criticise; rather praise. Intermarriage between races based on war and conquest have given us the mixed human breeds that are the good progressive breeds among human beings.

Three thousand years ago the most mixed of all the races was the Greek race. From Asia, the Balkans, from all directions, came the people that made Greece the greatest nation. Then Italy was the great mixed nation. Then France, with Romans, Gauls, Celts, all types of Germans, was the great nation.

Then came England, invaded from everywhere, assimilating everybody. And then the United States loomed up as the grand international mixture.

In Asia the powerful nation is Japan. And the islands of Japan, like Greece and like the swamps on which Venice was built, were populated and built up by mixed breeds from everywhere. A thoroughbred horse and a mongrel man make the best horse and the best man. But with the human animal, while you may mix the BREED, you must not mix the COLOR. That doesn't work.

Before we finish this will be a very pure country. In Topeka they are carrying on cigarette raids. If you have a cigarette "on the hip" you must march away to the dungeon. Thus one kind of purity follows another. Purity seems to have an "excelsior" attachment. The higher they go the higher they want to go. Kansas drops alcohol, now drops cigarettes. Who knows but she will one day live, as birds of paradise were supposed to do, and as the orchids really do, on thin air?

Wisconsin, where they once made good beer, knew how to drink it and let whiskey alone, is also trying to be extra pure. According to the opinion of the assistant attorney-general, if you go into a saloon and drink non-intoxicating liquors anywhere in Wisconsin, you must stand away from the bar, not putting your foot on the rail, or your elbow on the bar. To do either is against the law. That seems hard. You might let the poor things have the contortions of the Sibyl since they cannot have the inspiration.

FUNERAL IN HISTORIC CHURCH

Impressive Rites at Naples for World's Most Famous Tenor

Naples, Aug. 4.—The most impressive funeral services Naples has known in modern times were held today when the late Enrico Caruso was buried amidst the lamentation of the grief-stricken populace.

A tremendous crowd attended the last rites, including prominent persons who had come from various parts of Italy and even from Paris. That the singer was really the idol of the Neapolitan populace was made plain by the evidences of grief on every hand.

King Victor Emmanuel had suggested funeral service in the Basilica of the Cathedral of San Francesco de Paola, and it was in that historic edifice that the funeral services were conducted according to the liturgy of the Roman Catholic Church.

The Italian government and the municipality were represented. Caruso's body had been lying in state in the death room of the Vesuvius Hotel since Wednesday morning. The plan to put it on public view on the stage of a local theatre was not put into effect.

A death mask was made by the famous Italian sculptor Cifaiello, and a moving picture operator recorded the scenes while the sculptor was at work.

Richard W. Child, the American Ambassador, has sent a message of condolence to Mrs. Caruso, expressing not only his personal sympathy, but that of the United States. Mrs. Caruso has not yet made plans to return to New York, as there are a number of technicalities concerning the estate to be fixed up.

Millions Spent By Famous Tenor

New York, Aug. 4.—Enrico Caruso's income, operatic and special performances and sale of music records, twenty years' preceding death, $10,000,000.

Caruso's estate, net at death, $1,000,000, to $1,500,000.

These figures, in brief, tell the story of the career and financial accomplishments of the world's greatest tenor.

Caruso died possessed of scarcely more than 10 per cent. of the great fortune he had amassed by his marvelous voice and "financial intuition." These estimates were given by two of the dead man's devoted friends, Salvatore Fucito and Constantino J. Sperco.

HOW ESTATE IS LEFT.

The will was drawn up two years ago by Mr. Sperco, who is a notary. This was just prior to the birth of Caruso's daughter, Gloria. It was witnessed by Mr. Fucito and by Bruno Zirato, Caruso's secretary.

The tenor's property was disposed of in six equal parts to the following:

Caruso's stepmother, living in Italy.

Giovanni Caruso, his brother, present at his death.

Caruso's two sons, Rudolpho and Enrico, Jr.

Mrs. Dorothy Benjamin Caruso, widow.

Gloria Caruso, daughter.

Mr. Fucito said at his Upper Broadway studio:

"I think my dear friend left about $1,500,000 American money. I witnessed the will. It was his dearest wish to take care of the nearest and dearest to him."

VALUE ABOUT $1,000,000.

Mr. Sperco estimated the value of the estate at approximately $1,000,000, saying:

"Caruso spent his earnings like wildfire. He never got more than $2,500 a performance for singing at the opera here. I know, because I always saw the checks. He never refused the appeal for aid of a fellow countryman. He had lots of appeals

CONVICT IS SHOT BY OFFICER

"Revenge Escape" Foiled by Wounding Fugitive at Middleboro

Middleboro, Aug. 4.—A scheme for revenge concocted by Lorenzo Gringas in his cell in Plymouth jail was thwarted today when the escaped convict was shot in the back by a policeman following his appearance in a railroad yard here today.

Gringas, who escaped from the jail four days ago after serving a little over a year of a two-and-one-half-year term for breaking and entering, was armed with a long knife when captured. During his stay in jail he had repeatedly threatened to "get" his wife and Mrs. Fletcher Barrows, from whom he is known to have stolen valuables.

The shooting today came after Patrolman Sellers of Middleboro and Napoleon Carroll, a brakeman in the New Haven yards, dragged Gringas from a box car, where he had hidden. He wriggled from their grasp and fled. Sellers drew his gun and shot him through the back.

Gringas had been seen earlier walking across the tracks by Engineer Joseph Peck and Switchman Michael Cronin. Thinking him to be a railroad man, they did not pay any particular attention to him.

Gringas was serving time for burglary of a Brockton store. He also confessed to two other burglaries, had served two prison terms and was wanted by police in other cities.

He is believed to have been about to carry out his threat of violence on his wife and the Barrows woman when apprehended today.

TURKS RESORTING TO GUERILLA WARFARE

London, Aug. 4.—Turkish resistance to the Greeks in Anatolia has been reduced to guerilla warfare, according to official advices reaching the Foreign Office today. The Turks are still killing and deporting Greeks in the Trebizond district.

The Turkish Nationalist government at Angora has not yet sued for peace, but is seeking mediation. The British are not inclined to mediate, officials declared, because of the repudiation of their agreements by the Turks in the past and also because the Turks refused relief to British prisoners.

Candy Combine Cuts Prices One Third In Chain Stores

By International News Service.

New York, Aug. 4.—The first of the big candy combines with stores throughout the United States to return to something like normalcy today instituted a cut of 33 1-3 per cent. in candy prices at all its chain stores.

In a statement the company declares that it has not been driven to reduction of prices by competition, but that the cut in prices is based on sound business reasons.

Other candy interests are expected to fall into line soon. Sugar has been down in price for over a year and a leading New York candy manufacturer recently confessed that the business made 300 per cent. profit.

SEIZE 50 CASES OF RUM IN NEW HAVEN

New Haven, Aug. 4.—Rum-running activities kept police and federal enforcement men busy last night. Following seizure of fifty cases of liquor, valued at $5,000 and said to have been landed by boat, subsequent to the seizure of the sloop Jennie T., and arrest of Andrea Anastasio, 24, the police got word from Guilford that a boatload of liquor had been landed at Sachem's head dock. ROSE SUIT MAY RIVAL TOODLES

Attorney of Film Star's Husband Promises He'll Prove Charges

Edward Rose will have all the opportunity he wants to disprove the charges made against him in the Murphy divorce suit.

"The evidence to be offered by Mr. Murphy in this case will be so flagrant that it will send the famous 'Toodles' case into oblivion."

In these words, Joseph Santosuosso, No. 43 Tremont street, attorney for Joseph A. Murphy in the latter's suit against his wife, known to the motion picure world as Frances Stuart, answered Rose's vehement denials of the misconduct imputed to him in the petition, in which he is named corespondent.

"We have a number of witnesses, all of whom were carefully interviewed before the allegations were made, who will amply substantiate the charges contained in the written outline of our case," Santosuosso declared today. "These witnesses also will deliver testimony that will prove actions which border closely on violations of the Mann act. This testimony will involve a number of business and professional men of high standing."

ROSE CHARGES BLACKMAIL.

Rose, prominent business man with offices at No. 200 Summer street and a palatial Summer residence in the Chestnut Hills section of Newton, came out earlier in the day with a sweeping denial of the charges, declaring that the use of his name as corespondent is "absolutely unjustified by any facts whatever," and asserting that he would defend himself against the charges which, he says, "savor strongly of blackmail."

Santosuosso also took occasion to take a rap at Rose's war record, which, he declares, is anything but flattering when compared with that of Murphy.

"Murphy enlisted as soon as war broke out," he said. "He went into the aviation corps and received an honorable discharge as a sergeant. Rose, on the other hand, had to be dragged in. He sought exemption on the grounds that he had dependents, despite the fact that his income then was more than $10,000 a year. You notice that the draft board didn't allow his claim."

MISCONDUCT CHARGED.

The petition alleges misconduct between Mrs. Murphy, well-known film star, and Rose on April 1 of last year and on several occasions subsequently. Each of these allegations, Santosuosso declares, will be amply proved when the case comes up for trial in Superior Court.

The filing of the suit yesterday marked the shattering of a wartime romance. Murphy became acquainted with the pretty film star while he was in New York in the army. A wartime courtship was followed by a marriage late in 1918. They then moved to Boston, where Rose and Mrs. Murphy are said to have met for the first time.

Mrs. Murphy, who appeared with the late Enrico Caruso in the only film he was ever screened in, is at present said to be in Forest City, Iowa. Her husband is living at No. 1295 Commonwealth avenue.

POLICE AWAIT GOVERNOR SMALL AT CAPITAL

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 4.—The city police of Springfield went into action today for the first time in the "passive pursuit" of Governor Len Small of Illinois. A detail of policemen were under orders to watch each incoming train for the Governor. They were not specifically instructed to arrest him, but were to notify Sheriff Mester of the Governor's arrival. Warrants charging the State's chief executive with misuse of State interest funds were held by the sheriff.

Former Chorus Girl, Who Has Received Visit From Stork

LADY CUNLIFFE-OWEN.

Word that the stork has visited the London home of Sir Hugo Cunliffe-Owen, and left a son and heir to the British tobacco king's multiple millions, has reached Boston, where both are well known.

Incidentally the announcement recalls the sensational career of Lady Cunliffe-Owen. She began life as Helen Maizie Oliver, in a little Pennsylvania town, went on the stage as singer, dancer and actress, and married Marville Cooper Brice, member of a wealthy and prominent New York family.

Then Sir Hugo with his huge fortune appeared on the scene. Mrs. Brice obtained a divorce, and in December, 1918, wedded the Britisher at Dudley, Mass.

The next development in the story came when, in March, 1920, Brice brought suit for $500,000 against Sir Hugo, alleging alienation of his former wife's affections.

That suit was settled out of court and the details never allowed to become public property.

Among other sensational features connected with the marriage in Dudley was the presentation to the former chorus girl of the famous Cunliffe yellow diamond valued at $650,000 and the Owen pearl necklace reputed to be worth $100,000.

CHARGES INFLUENCE IN COOMBS AUTO CASE

Defiantly Contradicts Prosecutor and Says Latter Demanded Manslaughter Indictment

District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts, on trial in Supreme Court for alleged malfeasance, today accused his prosecutor, Attorney-General J. Weston Allen, of having tried to influence him in a criminal case in Middlesex County so that he, Allen, would have stronger grounds in a civil lawsuit.

Tufts made the charge while he was being cross-examined by Allen and while the Attorney-General was less "You wanted me to indict John W. than a foot away from him. Coombe for manslaughter and said you were relying on that to et your money?" said Tufts.

He repeated this in different form every time he got an opportunity in the duel of wits.

Tufts' sudden reversal from the role of defendant to that of accuser and his determined attitude furnished spectators with the first thrill of the Tufts time and again flatly contradicted Allen's statements in the Coombs case.

CONTRADICTS ALLEN.

"Nothing of the kind" or "You never said any such thing" were statements he made frequent use of.

Allen, bland and smiling, pursued his inquiry and did not allow himself to lose his temper.

Allen's appearance before Tufts in the Coombs matter was before he became Attorney-General.

John W. Coombs of Cambridge was driver of a car which killed one O'Day, and Attorney-General Allen charges that Tufts from improper motives failed to prosecute properly.

Tufts today made the counter charge that Allen as a private attorney and counsel for O'Day's relatives sought to have a manslaughter

Facts About Used Motor Cars

Buying opportunities such as exist in used motor cars today are unrivaled. And here's why:

Last year hundreds of people bought the new models and have used them more or less ever since.

Of course, these cars have been given good care—because of the investment they represent—and they haven't begun to render half their full service.

Today these people are again buying new models and their used cars are on the market for much less than their original cost. There are two ways to find exactly the one you are looking for.

One is to watch the "Automobile Exchange" columns in the Want Ad. Section. The other is to write an ad. of your own, stating precisely what you want and the price you want to pay. When the ad. is ready, leave it with or warrant made out against Coombs to strengthen the civil case.

CAPTAIN GORDON GRILLED ON "POCO" BENNETT BRIBERY CASE

POLICEMAN'S DIARIES SHOWN AT TUFTS TRIAL

"You wanted my help" said Tufts, speaking directly to Allen. "You had been looking up Coombs' bank account and hadn't had any luck."

"Go on, tell anything else you want to and then I will ask you a question, said Allen.

ALLEN POLITE.

"You told me you wanted aid in a civil suit." said Tufts.

"Are you finished?" inquired Allen politely.

Then Allen said: "As a matter of fact, didn't I tell you O'Day, the man who was killed, was a friend of mine?"

"You did not," replied Tufts bluntly, this being only one of many contradictions of the Attorney-General.

Tufts and Police Captain Herbert Gordon were the chief witnesses at the morning session.

Gordon testified on his second appearance of the day as to the raid on a Cambridge house which led to the arrest of James B. Munroe and Catherine Lord on a statutory charge.

This is one of the cases in which Allen charges Tufts with failure properly to prosecute.

Gordon was searchingly cross-examined by Attorney-General J. Weston Allen and Henry F. Hurlburt as to his financial affairs.

BORROWED $5,000.

He admitted that last year he borrowed $5,000 from Attorney Daniel Sughrue, of Daniel H. Coakley's office.

This, said Gordon, who has for years been attached to Tufts' office, was to cover a sharp decline in a stock that he was interested in.

Witness continued that Sughrue had further made asisgnment to him of "100 shares of Aetna," which was a desirable purchase at the time.

Hurlburt subjected Captain Gordon to a searching inquisition as to his bank account.

He was asked what banks he had money in at present and what banks he patronized "from 1917 to 1918." Many of the charges against Tufts, in some of which Gordon is named as alleged co-conspirator, date from 1917 and 1918.

TUFTS' STORY.

Gordon finally said that he had an account at present in the Cambridge Trust Company. The size of it was not brought out.

District Attorney Tufts told in detail his story of the "Poco" Bennet affair. He is accused by Attorney-General Allen of failing to put in enough evidence of bribery against the Corcoran brothers to obtain a Grand Jury indictment.

Today the Middlesex District Attorney stated earnestly that he did all he could, and that all but two of the chief witnesses against the Corcorans told their stories to the Grand Jury.

He had depositions from the absent two, he said, but the Grand Jury did not wish to hear them.

EXCLUDES TESTIMONY.

Chief Justice Rugg opened court with the announcement that certain parts of the testimony of Michael J. Mahoney, clerk of the Middlesex Grand Jury, who testified yesterday, would be excluded. He said they constituted expression of a personal opinion.

Attorney Melvin M. Johnson, counsel for Tufts, who put Mahoney on, said that so far as he was concerned all Mahoney's testimony might be excluded.

Tufts was called to the stand, but at the request of Hurlburt Captain Herbert Gordon was substituted for him.

Gordon was examined by Attorney Johnson as to the allegation of Louis (Poco) Bennett that he paid a $1,000 bribe to the Corcoran brothers when they represented to him that they could get Tufts to parole him from the East Cambridge jail.

Q.—Did you know "Poco" Bennett? A.—Since I arrested him I know him.

Q.—While Bennett was in the House of Correction did you have any talk with him? A.—Yes, two or three.

TALKED ABOUT HOLDUP.

Q.—What was the subject of that conversation? A.—With reference to the cripes for which he had been arrested (Bennett was serving time for conspiracy in the holdup in Everett of Paymaster Brown of the General Electric Company).

Q.—What did you seek to find out? A.—I had learned that there were two different crowds about to commit the robbery at the same time. Bennett was at the head of one of the gangs of Italians. I wanted to find out who was in that gang.

Q.—Did you have any talk whatever with Bennett regarding the Corcoran brothers, as Bennett has testified here? A.—No.

Q.—Did you say, in substance, anything like this: "That they, the Corcoran brothers, were reliable, and that you would guarantee payment by them?" A.—Never.

Q.—When was your first knowledge that he had paid the Corcorans any money? A.—Along in March or April of this year.

Q.—To date, you have never talked with Bennett regarding the Corcoran brothers? A.—No.

FEARED THE "GANG."

Q.—When was your talk with Bennett concerning getting out of the House of Correction? A.—Early last October.

Attorney Johnson—I would like to offer in evidence a brief record of the indictment against Bennett, in which it is shown that he was charged with stealing money from the General Electric Company on January 5, 1919. On March 12 he was arraigned and pleaded not guilty. On April 16 he retracted his plea, made it guilty, and on May 5 he was sentenced to two and one-half years at hard labor in the House of Correction.

Q.—What was that conversation with Bennett? A.—He said he was trying to get out and wanted my assistance. He said that the sheriff was trying to get him out by Thanksgiving. I said: "If you come across in regard to information about the gang I will speak favorably to the district attorney." He said: "I'm't tell you. They would kill me when I got out." I said: "I can't promise you anything and I don't think the district attorney will sign your parole."

TUFTS BATTLES ALLEN ON COOMBS AUTO CASE

Allen stepped up to the witness box at the Tufts trial today and resting his left arm on the shelf almost touched Tufts, while he engaged in a thorough cross-questioning of the district attorney.

Q.—You testified while I was in New York about a letter I sent you about the Coombs case, making inquiries about the Coombs car? A.—Yes. You wanted to locate that car in order to help you in a civil suit. You said you could not get any money unless Coombs was indicted for manslaughter. You wanted me to present the case for that purpose.

Q.—Didn't I call your attention to the fact that the car Coombs had driven and owned had not been located? A.—You informed me the car had not been found, and that you were anxious to attach it and that the Newton police had been unable to help you.

Q.—Did you make any investigation of the Corcoran story? A.—No.

Q.—Why not? A.—Because others were making an investigation. Attorney-General Allen, yourself, the district attorney and the Prison Commissioners were making them.

BROTHER'S CASE.

Q.—What investigation did you personally make? A.—I told the truth.

Q.—Is that an investigation? A.—As much as I knew.

Q.—Did you bring the books that I requested? A.—Here's one here. The other two I could not find, but I think I will be able to later today. My daughter told me she put some books in a box in the cellar before we went to the beach. I will go over to my home in Cambridge and try to find them. The books referred to by Captain Gordon were his police diaries, kept in stenographer's note books.

Q.—What is this entry here, "D. H. C."? A.—That was Mr. Coakley.

"What does this refer to? An electric case? A.—No, Eddie's case. My brother's case.

Q.—You have that marked important? A.—Yes, I considered it important. (Gordon's brother, Patrolman Gordon, who has been under suspension for some months following charges that he was implicated in auto thefts.)

Q.—Here is an entry on June 9, 1921, "working on Corcoran and Eddie's case all day." Was that Frank Corcoran? A.—No.

Q.—Was it his brother or cousin? A.—No.

Q.—What Corcoran was it? A.—I don't recall.

Q.—I see you have produced a folder labelled International Service Company, Inc.? A.—Yes.

Q.—Has anything been taken out of this folder? A.—Yes.

Q.—What? A.—A letter from the Lowell superintendent of police.

Q.—What else? A.—I don't recall. Whatever I took out I gave to counsel for the defence in this trial.

Hurlburt read a copy of a summons on Charles P. Korsak, Lowell agent of the International Company, and read notations concerning the company from the envelope.

He also found another folder, entitled, "August H. Turner case," notations showing the arrest of Turner in Dorchester for receiving stolen goods. Edward P. Barry was his counsel. The folder also contained a typewritten statement in the Commonwealth vs. Monroe case.

Q.—Who made this copy for you? A.—A young woman in the office.

The statement gave a record of the cases of James B. Monroe and Catherine C. Lord, who were arrested on a statutory charge in Cambridge. It was nol prossed Octobr 31, 1917, the record showed. The case against Monroe and Florence Seymour for alleged procuring was nol prossed October 31, 1917. Entries in both cases read "Attorney-not."

Q.—Wasn't William J. Corcoran counsel in this case? A.—No.

$5,000 SUGHRUE LOAN.

Q.—Was Daniel H. Coakley? A.—Yes, he was counsel for Monroe and Mr. Whipple had that.

Attorney Fletcher Ranney objected to Hurlburt's "littering up the records." Hurlburt smiled and said he didn't think he was.

Captain Gordon was examined by Ranney concerning the $5,000 loan which was made to him by Attorney Daniel Sughrue of Coakley's office.

Q.—When did you begin borrowing money from Sughrue? A.—I don't know exactly, but I thing it was about a year ago.

Q.—Was it in 1919 or 1920? A.—I think in July, 1920.

Q.—I don't wish to pry into your affairs, but did stock you owned have a slump about that time? A.—Yes, a bad slump.

Q.—Did Sughrue help you? A.—Yes. He made a loan to me of $5,500 or $7,500.

Q.—In stock or cash? A.—That was in cash.

Q.—Did he assist you in connection with stock you had partly paid for? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did he assign stock to you? A.—Yes, last September.

Q.—And these transactions did not begin until 1920? A.—No.

Q.—Did you tell Tufts you had borrowed money from Sughrue or that he had tronsferred stock to you? A.—No.

Hurlburt—What banks have you got accounts in? A.—In the North Avenue Savings Bank.

Q.—What other bank? A.—I beg your pardon, did I say North Avennue Savings Bank? That's my wife's account.

Q.—Have you got accounts in any other bank? A.—I have a check account in the Cambridge Trust Company.

Q.—What other banks? A.—I had accounts at the Five Cents Savings Bank and the Central Trust Company, where I had a check account.

Q.—What banks have you got accounts in now? A.—Cambridge Trust Company.

Q.—What banks did you have accounts in from 1917 to 1918? A.—The Cambridge Trust Company and the North Avenue Savings Bank.

Q.—What concerns did you have your stock dealings with? A.—Charles Head & Co. and Lovell & Co.

Q.—Did Sughrue transfer stock to you? A.—Yes, he had 1,000 shares of Aetna and I heard it was a good buy and wanted 100 shares and he transferred 100 to me through Charles Head & Co.

Clarence H. Cooper, clerk of the Supreme Judicial Court for more than thirty years, was ill today and could not attend the trial. His place is being filled by John H. Flynn, assistant.

TALKED ABOUT 'GANG.'

District Attorney Tufts was called to the stand.

Attorney Johnson questioned him regarding his conversation with "Poco" Bennett in the House of Correction.

Tufts said he talked with Bennett in an endeavor to find out who was in the gang who robbed Paymaster Brown. Bennett had testified that the conversation had been about the Corcoran brothers.

He was asked about witnesses he had secured for the Grand Jury, in the Corcoran matter. He said he interviewed, before the Grand Jury, "Poco" Bennett, Captain Gordon, Probation Officer Ramsey, Frank and Charles Corcoran, Marston, Bennett's wike and Stone. These interviws were taken stenographically.

He said he called Mrs. Bennett on the telephone and she said she was too ill to attend the Grand Jury hearing. He also called on Butler, brother-in-law of Bennett, who said he did not wish to come before the Grand Jury because he was afraid to lose his job in Providence.

Tufts said he made a statement before the Grand Jury, under oath, saying:

"No one has ever approached me with an offer of money. Several persons have suggested that they would like to see Bennett free. His sister came to me and said everyone connected with the case, even to the judge, had accepted money to send him to prison."

Tufts went on that the Grand Jury made two motions, one commending James P. Ramsey and Tufts himself on their course in the case and the other suggesting that the Corcorans be invited to testify.

He said the only two witnesses of importance who did not appear at the Grand Jury session were Mrs. Bennett and Butler, her brother.

Tufts denied that he intentionally delayed a representative of Attorney-General Allen, who wanted to see "Poco."

On cross-examination he admitted Butler and Mrs. Bennett were important witnesses, but repeated that he had offered to read their statements. The Grand Jury didn't want to hear them.

Q.—What was your object in taking the stand and telling what a bad man Bennett was? A.—Because an attempt had been made to show that I had received money improperly in this case and I wished to clear myself before the public.

In reply to a question by Allen, Tufts said:

"There had been an intimation that an attempt had been made to bribe me. I wished to have it thoroughly probed; the county commisisoners and others were investigating the case."

Q.—You wished to clear yourself when you testified before the Grand Jury? A.—I wished to give the Grand Jury the facts.

Q.—You thought you had been accused? A.—There had been innuendoes and insinuations with which I've had a lot of experience of late and I wished to get the facts. There was talk that $1,000 had been paid. "Poco" Bennett had been telling a story.

Q.—Did you have any doubt after hearing the statement of Marston and Mr. and Mrs. Bennett that $1,000 had been paid in the courthouse? I had a great deal of doubt.

WANTED TO GET FACTS.

Q.—Did you ever ascertain what amount had been paid? A.—I think I heard the amount.

Q.—Did you learn a $1,000 bill had been paid and was still in Mrs. Bennett's possession? A.—I think that was said.

Q.—Did you tell the Grand Jury that? A.—No.

Q.—You knew Marston had made an entry in his book as to the date when the $1,000 was paid? A.—Yes.

Q.—Why, then, did you introduce evidence before the Grand Jury that there was bad feeling between Bennett and the Corcorans when you knew of the entry in Marston's diary? A.—I knew Marston was outside and could tell his story.

GRAND JURY HAD ENOUGH.

Q.—Why didn't you tell the Grand Jury Marston was outside prepared to tell about that entry? A.—The Grand Jury said they had heard enough about the case and were satisfied. Therefore it was not my intention to go further.

Attorney-General Allen read an excerpt from Tufts' testimony before the Grand Jury, in which Tufts said there was no entry in Marston's book opposite November 16, but that on a back page appeared an entry, November 16, about the payment of $1,000 by Louis Bennett to Charles Corcoran.

Allen pointed out particularly the following excerpt from Tufts' Grand Jury testimony: "Marston said that he saw Mrs. Bennett and her brother down at the end of the corridor and Mrs. Bennett says she was not there at all."

Q.—Did you say that to the Grand Jury? A.—Yes.

Q.—Why did you tell the Grand Jury Mrs. Bennett was not there? A.—Because she said so. She said she was between the two buildings.

Allen.—Let me read her statement. "The statement was to the egect that she and her brother entered the court house by the Third street entrance and sat on the bench in the corridor. Charles Corcoran came in, she said, and went with her brother to the end of the corridor, leaving her. Mrs. Bennett testified that they turned to the right at the end of the corridor and she could not see them. She did not know whether they went into the State police quarters.

Q.—Now that I have refreshed your memory, why did you tell the Grand Jury she was not there at all? A.—I told them that because it was just as you read it. She wasn't there.

Q.—Is that why you told them she wasn't there at all? A.—They went to the end of the corridor and she couldn't see them.

Q.—Qou knew that statement would discredit Marston's testimony, didn't you? A.—Yes.

Q.—Didn't Attorney Counihan demand that his clients be admitted as witnesses? A.—Yes.

Q.—And having demanded it, you so informed the Grand Jury? A.—Yes.

Q.—And you admitted them? (The Corcoran brothers). A.—No, I rang for an officer who went for them.

ONLY A MILE AWAY.

Q.—You knew the attorney general was investigating this matter, didn't you? But you did not ask him for any information for the Grand Jury? A.—You knew the Grand Jury inquiry was on and you were only a mile away.

Q.—Will you leave it that way? A.—I'd like to tell you some other things I know about that case. You knew the Grand Jury hearing was on.

Q.—You were in the Grand Jury room when other witnesses testified? A.—Yes.

Q.—And you were a witness yourself? A.—Yes, but not while the other witnesses were there.

Allen—I would now like to take up the Coombs case, evidence in which was offered by the defence while I was in New York taking depositions.

Johnson—You may proceed, so far as we are concerned.

Allen stepped up to the witness box and resting his left arm on the shelf almost touched Tufts, while he engaged in a ver ythorough cross questioning of the district attorney.

CLASH WITH ALLEN.

Q.—You testified while I was in New York about a letter dated March 13, 1919, which I sent to you about the Cooms case, making inquiries about the Coombs car? A.—Yes, you wanted to locate that car in order to help you in a civil suit. You said you could not get any money unless Coombs was indicted for manslaughter y the Grand Jury. You wanted me to present he case for that purpose.

Q.—You have answered my question. Now, didn't I call your attention to the fact that the car that Coombs had driven and owned had not een located? A.—You informed me the car had not been found and that you were anxious to attach it and that the Newton police had been unable to help you.

Q.—Didn't I tell you that Coombs' car had been going about fifty miles and hour and had struck the Ford and continued 120 feet? A.—You said nothing of the kind.

Q.—Didn't I tell you that it would be useful to locate the car for either a criminal or civil case A.—You never mentioned anything of the kind. You told me you had been looking around and trying to find his bank account and hadn't had any luck. You wanted me to help you by criminal action.

Attorney-General Allen—Go on, tell anything else you want to, and then I will ask you a question. Have you finished?

Q.—Do you remember that I told you that the associate justice in the district court had found that Coombs had been driving his car fifty miles an hour and was guilty of criminal negligence? A.—You never mentioned that fact. You told me you wanted me to aid you in a civil suit which was pending.

Q.—Didn't you put the case before the Grand Jury in January, and isn't it true I didn't talk with you about it until March? A.—Yo utalked with earlier and you wanted Coombs indicted for manslaughter to help get your money.

Q.—Did you tell me you had brought the facts out before the Grand Jury. A.—No. You were complaining about the situation.

Q.—Didn't I tell you the O'Day who was killed was a friend of mine? A.—You did not.

Q.—Didn't I tell you he had no property? A.—You did mention that.

Q.—Didn't I tell you Coombs, the defendant, lived in Cambridge? And that he owned and operated a car in Cambridge? A.—I don't recall anything like that. You told me you wanted an indictment for manslaughter and would rely on that to get your money.

McDERMOTT'S BROTHER.

Q.—Wasn't Attorney Frank McDermott counsel for Coombs? A.—I don't know.

Q.—And Frank McDermott was a brother of the McDermott in Cambridge who had a garage? A.—There is a McDermott who is an attorney.

Q.—And his brother ran a garage where Captain Gordon put up cars? A.—I don't know anything about that.

Q.—So after I wrote to you you wrote to the chief of police of Newton instead of the chief of police in Cambridge? A.—I did that because you asked for help. You said the Newton police would not help you. I thought I could get them to.

Q.—Did you ever find out that John W. Coombs lived in Cambridge? A.—I may have.

Q.—You mentioned that there were two other civil suits pending in the Coombs case? A.—I was so informed.

Q.—Do you consider that where a criminal case of this character is pending at the same time a civil action is the criminal case must wait three or four years before it is tried? A.—During my six years of experience I have known of only two cases where the court has allowed a criminal action to be tried when a civil action in the same case was pending.

WILCOX CASE.

Attorney Fletcher Ranney took Tufts for direct examination in the Byron A. Wilcox case. Wilcox was charged with receiving stolen goods on November 2, 1919. Allen charges Tufts with having withheld evidence and failed to introduce proper evidence against Wilcox.

Tufts testified that his first knowledge of the case came when he was visited by a police officer, who said Wilcox had been sentenced in the lower court. Tufts said he was later visited by four or five citizens of Somerville, who said that Wilcox was a reputable citizen, and that he had bought the sugar in the case without knowing it had been stolen. He continued that he then talked with Wilcox and Garland.

Wilcox said, according to Tufts that he had lost much money and was unable to afford an attorney. He added that he had paid the market price for the sugar. Tufts told him he would have to hold the case for the Grand Jury. He also advised him to make restitution.

Q.—Did you say "Garland was a friend of yours and helped you in your campaign"? (Garland entered the case when the State alleged Tufts "let up" on Wilcox because of friendship for him, Garland.) A.—No.

Not a Drop of 'Home Brew" Found in Washington

By International News Service.

Washington, Aug. 4.—Not a drop of home brew was found in the national capital during July by the police who conducted rum raids, it was disclosed today in the monthly report:

This would indicate, the police say that Washington is inhabited by drys, or, on the other hand, that residents of the capital are so well supplied with old stuff that they don't need to resort to home brew.

LAY STOUGHTON MURDER TO MISTAKE

Wife Believes Assassin Intended to Kill Boarder

Stoughton, Aug. 4.—Leon Statkus shot to death in the doorway of his home last night by an unidentified assassin, is believed by his wife and neighbors to have been a victim of mistaken identity.

Mrs. Statkus declared today she based her belief on the fact that her husband came home from his poolroom twenty minutes early last night, at the exact time when a boarder at their home usually returns.

It is her belief that the murdered man was shot by someone who was planning to kill the boarder, who, she says, has aroused considerable enmity among the Lithuanian element of the town.

The woman is confined to bed today, prostrated by grief.

MARY JOHNSON CALLS VICTOR SEARLES A 'TIGHT-WAD' MILLIONAIRE

RECEIVED ONLY ONE PRESENT

By HAZEL CANNING.

A three-day courtship is all too speedy.

A millionaire who gives his fiancee only one present, an old picture, in all their engaged days, is a "tight wad" of a millionaire.

An engaged man, who "moons" about the sidewalks, always walking with his head bent on the ground, is too "spooky" to bother with.

Beware "all sich," girls! For a generous man, making only $20 a week, and keeping his word, is a better man than a millionaire to tie your faith to.

Thus advises Miss Mary Johnson, who has just filed suit for breach of promise against Victor Albert Searles, millionaire. Miss Johnson says that Millionaire Searles was a careful spender. Also that he was one of those thoughtful lovers who apologize for the fact that he cannot make a Christmas present, and think that the apology will serve as well as the present.

"Watch your step, little girl," is her advice to all her sisters, when penny counting millionaires come courting. The lady has formulated a philosophy of womankind culled from her painful experience. Just listen to a few of her maxims:

"Now," allowed Miss Johnson, "when a man asks a young woman to marry him, while still he is married to his first wife, he shows poor form. Right then and there he shows that he does not understand the decent respect which is due a decent woman.

"I loved Mr .Searles. I saw in him things which the ordinary observer would not see. He is a student. He was, until this money turned his head, very much of a recluse. He walked the streets with his head down; he might pass all the town and never know anybody was near him. But, since he has come into the money, he has turned worldly. He has taken on flesh; he walks jauntily, with his head up. He whistles, and he seeks high life, night life with ———, so I have heard, a lady none too particular.

"Now I made a grave mistake. When Mr. Searles told me he was married and begged me to keep up the engagement, as he was getting a divorce, I should have sent him off at once. But I did not. He spoke so earnestly. He said he would be divorced soon, and that then we would be married. I loved him, and overlooked his deceit. I wish now that I had not.

"In the great love game, my dear, the women who can drive the hardest bargains with men, are the women who always hold them. The woman who forgives, just has to forgive again and again and again. Just at present, so I hear, Mr. Searles is following a strange goddess, who plays not the great love game by rule but by trespass, wildly. With the new riches, he feels emboldened to go out into the world and try all pleasures, even sweets forbidden to him for a lifetime; to try them till he is sickened of forbidden sweets.

"That's the way the woman who loves him, diagnoses his troubles. I know if I wished to wait, till the flashy women of the world had wearied him sufficiently, he would come back to me. But I consider that the dignity of good womanhood forbids me to wait.

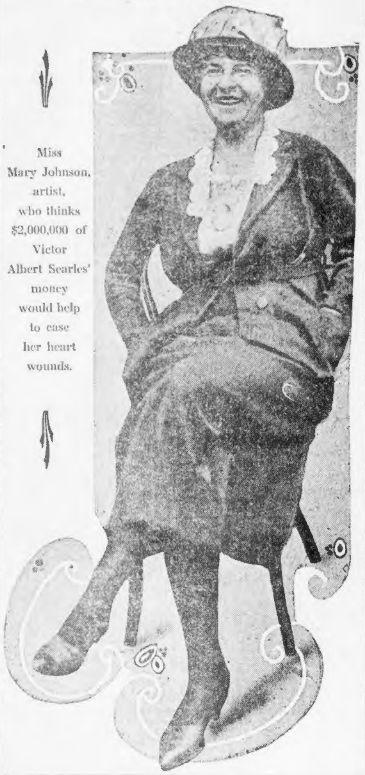
"Years ago, in the old day, the good woman would have waited till her man crawled home, very tired and very repentant. Today, however, is the new day, in which women, even women slighted by millionaires, still seek redress of the court.

"I guess, when all is said and done, the old rules are the best rules. And the old usages the best usages. And, as I think everything over, I have one thing uppermost in my mind.

"Of all men on earth the stingy man—who apologizes for not giving his fiancee a Christmas present, is pretty bad.

"But if, in addition to this, he is stingy and a millionaire—he is beyond redemption. And all the time I was forgiving Mr. Searles and making excuses for all his meanness, I knew this in my heart. But it is natural for a good woman to overlook a lot. And this is why good women fail to hold their men, while the bad women lead them about with ropes of iron."

PLAINTIFF IN BREACH OF PROMISE ACTION



Miss Mary Johnson, artist, who thinks $2,000,000 of Victor Albert Searles' money would help to ease her heart wounds.

SAYS HYPNOTISM MADE HER QUIT HUSBAND

The hynotic powers exercised by Moses Robinson, colored, calsed Mrs. Mary Sharaffa, white, to leave her husband and two children in Athol and come to Boston with him, she told Judge Wentworth in police court today.

Mrs. Robinson and Robinson were arrested in a room at No. 130 Northampton street last night by Sergeant George McDonald and a squad of officers from Station Five. Their cases were continued for one week when they were arraigned while Mrs. Sharaffa, at the request of her attorney, ex-Representative John Glynn, was sent to Psychopathic Hospital for observation.

According to police, the two have been living together on Northampton street for fifteen days, ever since they disappeared from their homes in Athol. The woman's husband, Joseph Sharaffa, is employed there in the paint shop run by Robinson.

The man faces a desertion charge.

MODEL, SUING, WANTS HIM, NOT HIS CASH

New York, Aug. 4.—Though she is suing for $25,000 for breach of promise to marry, Miss Almena Scortioni, formerly a sculptor's model, says she does not want the money but insists that Claude MacNeil, twenty-two years old, marry her.

Miss Scortioni is in Flushing Hospital where she was operated on for appendicitis. She said:

"Claude's mother, when in Italy, told my father I would make a good model for a Madonna for her husband, Atkins MacNeil, the sculptor.

CAME TO AMERICA.

"It was arranged I would go to America. Mrs. MacNeil in writing promised that I would be returned safely. My brothers consented. My mother is dead.

"I lived with the family in New York and looked on Claude as a relative. But one night last January, when his parents were out, he came to my room and tried to make love. I told him my heart was in Italy with my father and brothers.

"He insisted he would marry me and we would go to Chicago. I gave in. We met many many times after that. Finally I became worried. I confided in Mrs. MacNeil. I told her Claude and I wanted to be married.

MOTHER AGAINST HER.

"Mrs. MacNeil told me the climate must have affected my mind. She arranged that I live at the Girls' Community Club in College Point. The other day I telephoned to her that I wanted to marry Claude. She refused to let me talk to him and said I was foolish.

"Soon after a man and woman came to me and said they wanted me to meet a young man I should marry. I replied that I loved Claude and I could not go back to Italy because I must have Claude."

Young MacNeil said yesterday:

"I was never alone with the girl. There was no chance for us to meet in secret."

EAST WIND GETS CREDIT FOR COOL WAVE

Breezes Chilled by Ocean Cause Mercury Drop Like Last August's

When reaching for an extra blanket these cool nights, don't be discouraged. Last August was just as cool.

Weather observers say the cool wave is nothing unusual. The east wind is responsible.

From August 18 to 26 last year the average temperature was 66 degrees and the highest was 75.

Boston's famous east and northeast winds are now blessing her with relief from the wilting rays of the sun.

Fair and not much change in temperature is the official forecast for tonight and Friday, with moderate variable winds.

The first freezing weather of the season is reported from White River, Ontario, where it was 32 degrees above.

Boston was the warmest place in New England this morning at 8 o'clock, with a temperature of 70. By 11 o'clock the mercury rose to 74. The humidity this morning hovered around 55, or fifteen degrees below normal.

WHY EAST WIND IS COOL.

Why is the east wind cool? On the top floor of the Postoffice there is a staff of men who revel in wrestling with high and low pressure, "disturbances" and the changes in climatic conditions. One of these explained that the ocean is cool now and when the wind blows over it the wind naturally gets cool and Bostonians and others living along the coast receive the benefit.

It takes the ocean longer to warm up than the land in the Summer time. In other words, the ocean is just getting thawed out of last Winter's weather. East winds in the Winter time mean warmer weather.

In Greenville, Me., last night the mercury dropped to 48, which is some cool for August. In Concord, N. H., the minimum was 52, and at Northfield, Vt., the lowest was 50.

WARM WATER AT BEACH.

The wind on last Thursday came from the southwest and the temperature was 95. The next day the wind shifted to the east and the highest the mercury went was 79. Since then the wind has been from the east or northeast, and when it did shift to another direction, the velocity was so slow and it was so cloudy here that the comparatively cool wave hung on.

So the warm water at the beach of late is explained. Easterly winds have been driving in the warm surface water. But if the wind shifts to a westerly direction, it will carry off this warm surface water and the cool water from the depths of the ocean will give bathers a chill.

HARVEY MAY ENTER RUSSIAN DISCUSSION

London, Aug. 4.—George Harvey, the American ambassador to England, who will represent his country at the Supreme Council meeting in Paris next week, may take an active part in the attempt to settle the Russian situation if it is brought up by the Allied body, according to the Daily Telegraph.

"If the Supreme Council discusses Russia, Ambassador Harvey may regard his mandate as extending beyond the role of here observer since President Harding and Herbert Hoover are now displaying an interest in Russian relief," said the newspaper.

FORMER VICTIM TURNS AGAINST WORTHINGTON

Chicago, August 4.—More information was thrown on the operations of John W. Worthington, accused of being the head of a nation-wide band of postal robbers, when Joseph Stout, Chicago broker, was arrested and questioned. Stout was charged with trading in stolen securities, said to have been obtained from Worthington. He will probably be used as a Federal witness against Worthington. One of the strange coincidents is that Stout was a former victim of Worthington in the wrecking of the American Banking Association in 1914.

MASONIC CLUB 2,500 MEMBERSHIP REACHED

The Boston Masonic Club has reached its limit of 2,500 members and will celebrate at the club Saturday evening. The remarkable growth from about 500 on January last to its present large membership is due to an energetic campaign. The present entrance fee of the club is $10, but commencing with Monday next this has been increased to $25. The club, having purchased the Slater mansion, No. 448 Beacon street, corner of Hereford street, is now preparing the building, and the opening will take place early in September.

FRIENDS MOURN AT FORMER BEAUTY'S BIER

Body of Sara Cowen Shipped to Aiken, S. C., to Be Alongside Mother

New York, Aug. 4.—The wretched nature of her career in this city did not rob Miss Sara Campbellina Cowen of her friends. The body of the former Baltimore society girl, who died in miserable circumstances at the Hotel Maryland last Sunday, has been sent to Aiken, S. C., for burial beside her mother.

Some fifty friends, most of them women, attended the simple funeral services in the chapel of Bellevue Hospital, conducted by the Rev. William Smith of the Universalist Church on Fifth avenue, Brooklyn.

Many floral offerings were on the casket. A group of nurses with whom Miss Cowen had studied at Post Graduate Hospital attended the services.

BODY ESCORTED SOUTH.

The body was escorted South by John L. Woods, Miss Cowen's nephew, and Henry B. Voorhees, general manager of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. Her father, John G. Cowen, was formerly president of that corporation, besides achieving note as a lawyer and a member of Congress.

In Baltimore, where she was born thirty-three years ago, Miss Cowen was a prominent figure in society. When she made her debut she was declared to be the most beautiful bud of the season. A lavish entertainer at her magnificent home, she was a conspicuous figure for several years.

In 1909 she was married to Charles Monson, Jr., son of a retired New Haven capitalist. A divorce followed shortly.

ACQUIRED DRUG HABIT.

After this Miss Cowen came to New York, where she soon acquired acquaintances who sped her downfall. At Post Graduate Hospital she was a probationary nurse for nine months. There she often entertained the other nurses and members of the house staff, for she was an accomplished pianist and singer.

But her work at the hospital was marred by her addiction to drugs. She could not break herself of the habit, even after seeking a cure at Welfare Hospital on Blackwell's Island last March.

Her death was due to an overdose of drugs. She was registered at the time at the Hotel Maryland with a chauffeur.

Mr. Hyde was well known in this city, where in 1875 he founded the Tower Hill Lyceum, a forerunner of the modern evening school. He is survived by his widow and three children, James A. of this city, a newspaperman; Ernest G. of Springfield and Mrs. Putnam Ropes of Mattapan.

MOTHER UNABLE TO HELP AS PRIEST DROWNS

Gloucester, Aug. 4.—Rev. Father Bernard A. Shevlin of St. Joseph's Church, Medford, was drowned in the Annisquam River, near Jones' Creek, while his mother and sister looked helplessly on.

Father Shevlin was thirty-six years old and had been a priest for four years. His body was later recovered by the police and a lung motor was used without results in an attempt to revive him. This is the first drowning of the season at Annisquam.

His Last Picture

"See how well I am looking," Caruso scrawled on one of these photographs, sent to a friend in New York. The picture was taken four weeks ago on the balcony of the tenor's hotel in Naples. There seems no hint of sadness in the contemplative gaze directed upon his favorite city.

and always appeased them with $100 bills. His income tax in 1919 was $170,020. In 1920 it was $165,000."

All Caruso's beneficiaries are living. The will provided that in case of the death of any one of the six, the share should be divided among the surviving beneficiaries.

Although drawn up in New York, the will is likely to be filed in Italy. Caruso's secretary, Mr. Zirato, said:

"Mr. Caruso never took out citizenship papers. He died an Italian. Mrs. Caruso is also an Italian National, as is little Gloria. In fact, Caruso specially registered Gloria as an Italian citizen at the time of her birth.

"I do not know what fortune he died possessed of, but, necessarily, it must be distributed according to Italian law."

A preliminary investigation to determine whether Caruso's estate is subject to the State inheritance tax probably will be begun in a few days by Lafayette B. Gleason, State Transfer Tax Attorney.

FAGAN'S BRIDE MAY LOSE FORTUNE

Aunt of 18-Year-Old Daughter of Calvin A. Stevens Sues to Recover Estate

Eighteen-year-old Katherine Stevens Fagan, who within a few months married and attempted to divorce "Dick" Fagan, Dartmouth student, and who is heiress to the reputed $1,200,000 estate of her late father, Calvin Amory Stevens, may be deprived of the fortune, it was learned today.

A suit has been filed in the New York Supreme Court by Mrs. Mary Grace Richardson, aunt of the young bride, claiming the bulk of the estate of the "recluse of Broad street."

Mrs. Richardson, who names Mrs. Fagan and her mother, Mrs. Jessie Stevens, as defendants, asks the court to construe the will of the girl's grandfather, Calvin Stevens, and to hold that the share in which Calvin Amory Stevens had an interest passed to her at his death.

$1,200,000 ESTATE.

Mrs. Richardson's complaint says that her father's will disposed of personal property and twenty parcels of realty worth $1,200,000 to his two daughtes, herself and Catherine Augusta Stevens, and his son, Calvin, in equal shares in trust. The will provided that on the death of one of the children the property was to go to the survivors, it is contended.

Catherine Augusta Stevens died in 1913, so her share went to the plaintiff and her late brother. Mrs. Richardson now claims that under a legal construction of her father's will her brother's share of the principal goes to her and that his heirs are entitled only to his share of the income.

Mrs. Fagan, who will be rendered almost penniless if the courts decide in Mrs. Richardson's favor, eloped with the twenty-year-old Dartmouth student last April. The young woman met Fagan, whose home is in Galveston, Texas, at a dance in one of the big New York hotels.

RUNAWAY MARRIAGE.

They ran away to New Jersey shortly afterward and were married by a justice of the peace, the religious ceremony being performed in Hanover, N. H., by the Rev. John Dall of Trinity Episcopal Church.

Their parents insisted on separating the couple for a year, and this was agreed to by Mr. and Mrs. Fagan in order that they might finish their educations. In June, however, young Mrs Fagan went to Reno and established a residence for the purpose of obtaining a divorce.

The following month she appeared in New York announcing that she could not stand the six month's exile in Reno and that she was going to Paris.

SPECIAL TOWN MEETING AT ARLINGTON CENTRE

The first special town meeting under the limited town meeting arrangement will be held in the Robbins' Memorial Town Hall, Arlington Centre, this evening, at 8 o'clock. There will be a vote to rescind the vote of 1902, by which printed notices of adjournment shall be left at every house in town. Appointment of constables, instead of electing by popular vote, will also be voted upon. The town will vote on the matter of giving financial aid to agriculture. Article 7 asks for a playground in the Brattle street district of the town. Action at the meeting will devolve on the 250 members and officials having a vote under the form of government.

BRAND REPORT OF BREAK BY ULSTER FALSE

Peace Proposals Not Even Placed Before Northern Cabinet Yet

London, Aug. 4.—A report that the Ulster Unionists have rejected the English government's peace proposals for Ireland was officially denied in Belfast today, according to a Central News dispatch from that city.

"The report is absolutely unfounded. In fact, no proposals have been put before the cabinet of Ulster by the government," the dispatch said. The report of the rejection of the peace offer was printed by the Daily News.

It said in part:

"A situation of the utmost gravity has arisen in Ireland. Northern Ireland has definitely and finally refused to have anything to do with the government proposals. North Ireland will not accept dominion status for Ireland, as a unit, or for Ulster. The Northerners decline altogether to enter into negotiations with the South upon the basis of the British cabinet's memorandum. There is an absolute deadlock."

43-TON DOOR VAULT IS HAULED THROUGH CITY

One of the doors for the vault of the new Federal Reserve Bank, Oliver and Franklin streets, which will own the second largest vault in New England, was hauled through the streets by fourteen horses and deposited at the building. The door weighed forty-three tons, and the entire vault will weigh 1,275 tons when constructed. Entrances to the vault will be made on three floors of the building.

SHOW BIG DROP IN EMPLOYMENT DEMANDS

Trades Craftsmen Are Most Sought, Labor Report Reveals

Marked falling off in the number of positions filled and the number of employers requesting aid in obtaining help, is shown in the figures for July just issued by the public employment offices of the Department of Labor and Industries, No. 8 Kneeland street.

The number of orders from employers was 22 per cent. less than for the preceding month and 32 per cent. less than for July a year ago.

The number of positions filled was 27 per cent. less than a year ago and 22 per cent. less than June.

During the month more than 2,000 former service men, soldiers and sailors, appealed for aid in obtaining work. Of these, 117 were given introduction cards and 60 obtained positions.

The demand for carpenters, painters, roofers and repair men of various sorts has led the list of requests for workers. The demand for plumbers has been persistent and impossible to fill, according to the report of the bureau.

The demand for mercantile and clerical help has been very small and easy to fill.

There is an over supply of men willing to go "back to the farm," and the bureau reports but few demands for this type of worker.

There are twenty boys for every position vacant. The demand for women workers in various branches of house work is growing tremendously, there being five employers for every girl calling at the office.

U. S. WILL FIGHT SHIP MONOPOLY BY RRITISH

Washington, Aug. 4.—America's determination to fight fire with fire in defense of its merchant marine against the monopolistic plans of British ship owners was proclaimed officially by the United States Shipping Board, which is ready for a real martime conflict, if necessary.

This statement, coming on the heels of the Shipping Board's first report of the London conference between its representative, Captain Frank Ferris, and the British Ship Owners' Association, was regarded as doubly significant. The report has not yet been made public.

"The report has been cabled, but it is yet to be decoded by the State Department and will probably be made public today," was the announcement at Chairman Lasker's office. "Meantime, the world may as well know that we are going to establish what American rights are and will then get those rights."

In explanation of the issues involved in the London conference, a high official of the Shipping Board made this statement:

"This particular conference, though dealing particularly with the shipment of cotton from Egypt, involves the general question of whether British shipowners are going to keep the American merchant marine from getting its fair share of the business on the seas."

Polo, which continues to be the rage at Naragansett Pier, is arousing no end of enthusiasm among the members of the Pier's Summer colony. Teams are expected from Myopia, Dedham, Meadow Brook, Bryn Mawr and the United States Army, for the polo tournament which opened this week at the Point Judith Polo Club. The club will give its usual large assortment of silver cups to the victors, including the Rathbone Memorial Cup, given by Mrs. J. C. Rathbone, of Harvey, La., in memory of her husband, the late J. C. Rathbone, a famous polo player. Mrs. Rathbone, who is occupying "Druid's Dream," on Gibson avenue, will personally present the trophy. Other cups will be the Army and Navy cups, the Atlantic cups, open championship, and the Point Judith challenge cups.

Among the players who are now at the Pier and have been busy practising four times a week are Augustus F. Goodwin and Quincy A. Shaw, 2nd, of the Myopia Hunt, of Massachusetts; William Grosvenor, Frederick Haserick, Carl Foster, C. F. Clarke, Dr. Strong, and Gerald Dempsey, of the Dedham Club, Massachusetts; John W. Converse, Randolph, Sr., Philip S. P. Randolph, Jr., and John R. Fell, of the Point Judith team.

Besides merely watching the games, society is very much taken up with the numerous polo luncheons, dinners, house parties and dances being given in connection with the tournament. During this month, the Pier's famous Casino will be the scene of many gay affairs, for polo players are "lionized" every bit as much as other sportsmen—if not more.

TEACHER, 59, TO WED IN SCHOOL DAYS ROMANCE

Methuen Divorcee to Be Bride of Boston Postal Man

A school days romance, dormant for many years, will culminate the last of this month in the wedding of Mrs. Harriet A. Dodge of Methuen to William Wardwell of the Boston postal service.

It will be the second marriage for both, Mrs. Dodge having divorced her husband, while Wardwell's wife died about eight years ago. The woman, who is fifty-nine years old, has two grown children, and her prospective husband, sixty-two years of age, is the father of three.

Mrs. Dodge, who is a teacher in the Ashford School in Methuen, said the wedding was to be a quiet affair, and that she would continue teaching after the ceremony, at least for another year, when she becomes eligible for a pension.

Mrs. Dodge said today that she and Wardwell were brought up together in Methuen, attended the grammar and high schools and taking part in school activities. After graduation Wardwell came to Boston, where he entered the postal service, and is now in the registry department at the Boston postoffice.

The woman eventually married and had two children, Florence, who is principal of the Currier School at Methuen, and Archibald, an insurance man at Providence. Wardwell also married, and two of his children are married. He will try to get transferred to the Lawrence postoffice, Mrs. Dodge stated.

TWO ACCUSED OF STEALING AN AUTO

Foils Boy Bandits by Slipping Watch Down Her Blouse

By International News Service.

New York, Aug. 4.—Two Columbia University students, Clifford L. Brownell of Hartford, Ct., and Mildred Annan of Lawrence, Mass., were held up and robbed by four youthful bandits at One Hundred and Twentieth street and Riverside Drive early today. The couple were returning from a dance at one of the university halls.

A patrolman appeared while the holdup, which was conducted in an amateurish manner, was in progress, and the boy bandits, two of whom were armed, fled.

One was captured after a short chase. He had taken a fountain pen, a pencil and 65 cents. Brownell's wallet, which was in an inside pocket, had been overlooked.

By some quick thinking and light finger work on her own part, Miss Annan saved Brownell's gold watch. While the holdup was in progress she picked his pocket and slipped the watch down the front of her blouse.

HAVERHILL'S SHOE WAR NEAR CRISIS

Haverhill, Aug. 4.—That the final arbitration board will be a deciding factor in the settlement of a new wage scale for the local shoe industry, including 20,000 workers, is indicated by the action of price committees and adjustment boards now convening for the purpose of negotiating a new wage agreement. The negotiations took on a new impetus this week with practically every branch of the industry represented in the conference. On many questions agreements to disagree by the price and adjustment committees, are bein greferred to the arbitration board. The members of the board are Nap Thierault, Hogan and Honorable Henry G. Wells.

SEEK AID FOR INDIVIDUAL FARMER

Senators Would Alter Export Financing Bill to Protect Man With Plow

By International News Service.

Washington, Aug. 4.—As the time approached today for final action in the Senate on the amended administration bill to provide for financing exports, a question arose as to the extent to which the individual farmer would be benefited by the measure.

Members of the Senate "agricultural bloc" who were divided as to the methods to be adopted for the export financing, when both the Norris and the Kellogg bills were before them, are swinging into line behind the McNary substitute reported by the Senate agriculture committee, but a wide divergence of opinion still prevails as to the details of the operation of the international marketing scheme.

Amendments were offered by Senators from agricultural States, who endeavored to assure themselves that the individual farmer—the man with the plow for whom the legislation is being perfected—will actually participate in the promised benefits.

HERO GIVEN AID AFTER LONG DELAY

Boston American Wins Fight for War Veteran Denied Compensation

By CHARLES O. POWER.

There is a real human interest story behind the following terse telegram to the Boston American:

"Re Thomas F. Lyons, disability rating of permanent total from December 20, 1920. Service connected. Special check covering award will leave Bureau in the morning.
C. R. Forbes, Director."

The signature is that of Colonel Forbes who is the presiding genius of the War Risk Bureau. Thomas F. Lyons was a soldier in the World War. He was working in a shipyard in Seattle when the United States announced that an American expeditionary force would be sent to the battlefields of Europe to help the sorely pressed allies.

He heard the call for fighting men and he threw down his tools and took the first train for New York where he enlisted in the 106th Machine Gun Battalion, 27th Division, one of the first outfits to go over there. His honorable discharge is a record of gallant service.

HELPING THE DISABLED.

"Everything for the disabled." "Nothing is too good for the disabled." Those are the slogans of those who oppose a bonus. This little story is written to show that it is not so easy to get anything for the disabled.

Lyons fought in France and he fought in Belgium. It was while in France that he first experienced sensations that puzzled him. At times he felt as if pins and needles were pricking his arms and legs and, at other times, his right foot would "go to sleep."

But he stuck steadfastly to his job of fighting. The boy seemed to have a charmed life, for shortly after a 12-day soaking from the Germans and the elements in the Belgium wood, a big shell burst near him, killing a few and injuring a few more but letting him off with a toss down an embankment with no worse results than a stiff and sore back and a ringing in his ears for several days.

He went to work in New York city the day after his discharge. His landlady says he spoke to her of the pins-and-needles feeling once in a while.

After a few weeks he had a sudden weakness and had to give up work. So he came to see his brother who lives at No. 11 Malbon street, Roxbury.

This Boston brother got Thomas a job with an express company. His boss says he tried hard and worked faithfully for a few months and then the company was forced to let him go because he had become so weak that he could not do the easiest jobs.

It was at that time about twenty months after his discharge, that he asked for government medical care and compensation. He received the medical care, but was refused the compensation.

DENIED SERVICE WAS TO BLAME.

The medical section of the War Risk Bureau said his trouble was not of service origin. Affidavits were demanded. He furnished some he thought would do. But they did not satisfy the medical men at Washington.

He furnished some more, but they were not good enough.

It was pointed out by the medical men that he had worked for months after leaving his country's service.

It was at this point that his brother sought the assistance of the Boston American. And the first thing the Boston American wanted to know of the Bureau was if the fact that this boy had tried to be a useful citizen was to be argued against him.

DECLARED DISABLED.

The appeal for the boy was made direct to Colonel Forbes in the belief that he, as a soldier, would take into account the boy's war service and its hardships and not think ill of him, because he had tried to be a good soldier in the ranks of the wage-earners' army.

For some time the director, as was expected, upheld his medical section and said better proofs connecting the disability with the service must be produced. As he went step by step with the Boston American into the case, his interest seemed to grow, and soon there came from him a decision that the boy was permanently and totally disabled, but proof was lacking that his condition was due to war service.

Strange as it may seem, just a few days later, there came a notice from the Bureau that his condition had improved so much that further hospital treatment must be disallowed. This, in spite of the clinical record which shows the boy has multiple sclerosis, is paralyzed on one side, was admittedly totally disabled for "insurance," but not for "compensation."

The Parker Hill Hospital doctors in charge, Major Browne and Captain Storey, proved friends to Lyons. They kept him at the hospital and sent a story of his true condition to Washington about the same time the Boston American asked Colonel Forbes if he was going to indorse that sort of thing. He countermanded the order.

The Boston American suggested where more affidavits in the boy's favor might be found. Colonel Forbes promised to get after them and to give the case another review from the angle suggested by the American. He kept his promise. Lyons receives justice.

Fresh Vegetables Right From Garden at Sea Soon

New York, Aug. 4.—One of the surprises of the near future may be a new line of advertising by big steamship companies for truck gardeners to become horticultural experts on liners.

The great liner Aquitania already is a bower of posies under the expert gardening of G. H. Ridler, F. R. H. S. (Fellow of the Royal Horticultural Society).

SQUARE NAMED FOR NORMAN PRINCE

Dedication of Area at Rear of Old State House Planned

Sergeant George E. Wilson has received from Mayor Peters the pen with which he signed the order passed by the city council naming the Norman Prince square, the area back of the old State House, where Devonshire and Congress streets converge into State street. The square is to be dedicated on August 20 and Sergeant Wilson will be master of ceremonies for the occasion.

Governor Cox, General Edwards, Mayor Peters and representatives of France will be the speakers.

Norman Prince was the son of Frederick H. Prince, for many years a State street banker, and the grandson of Frederick O. Prince, once mayor of Boston. He was one of the first American boys to fly for France in the World War. One of the earliest members of the Lafayette Escadrille, he quickly distinguished himself for his coolness, daring and valor. He was one of the prominent aces of the famous French flying corps and participated in many battles in the clouds with the best fliers of Germany.

He was shot down while flying with Raoul Lufberry as a companion and is said to have exposed himself with reckless disregard for his own safety in turning back to help Lufberry fight off a sudden and fierce attack.

Sergeant Wilson was a member of the 101st Infantry and the first organizer for the American Legion in this State.

Both officers are on the night force and Lieutenant O'Hara has charge of the station house on alternate nights.

SENATOR FRANCE TO DEMAND RYAN PROBE

Flays Political Activity of Red Cross Men; at Berlin With Mrs. Harrison

By MARK S. WATSON

Berlin, Aug. 4.—Senator Joseph I. France, of Maryland, reached here this morning from Riga with Mrs. Marguerite E. Harrison, on their homeward journey. They expect to sail from Rotterdam for New York on August 17.

On his arrival, the Senator made a brief statement regarding the accusation he had made in Riga against Dr. Edward W. Ryan, Red Cross commissioner in the Baltic States, as to the Kronstadt revolt last Winter. He announced that as soon as he reaches Washington he will request the State Department to make a vigorous inquiry concerning the alleged political activity of certain of the Red Cross officials in Europe, specifically the Baltic commissioner, whom the soviets charge with undue familiarity with the causes of the last Kronstadt rebellion.

"It is, of course, a long familiar and time honored policy of the United States to avoid interfering in the affairs of other nations," said Senator France, "but the Soviet authorities have informed me that certain of our people have been meddling. If they had merely been private citizens it would have been less serious, though bad enough at that, but this charge is that Red Cross officials, who are frequently looked on over here as actually American government officials, have been involved.

"I do not, of course, know that this is a fact, but I propose to endeavor to have the State Department ascertain, and, if it is true, to stop it. I took occasion to utter a friendly warning to one Red Cross man in Riga (Dr. Ryan) whereupon he made a reply calculated to be heroic, but then calmed down considerably, merely boasting to such an extent of what he had accomplished for the good of humanity that the conversation was rapidly becoming one-sided.

"I told him that I felt that if he could compliment himself so much more highly than the situation seemed to me to require, I could add nothing to the extravagant admiration he expressed for himself and his accomplishments. So I left him with the assurance that I was less interested in his personal excellence than on his behavior as a quasi-representative of his country.

"Neither he nor any other man can be permitted to drag the American people into the embroglios of Europe. If they want to be filibusters, let them return to private life."

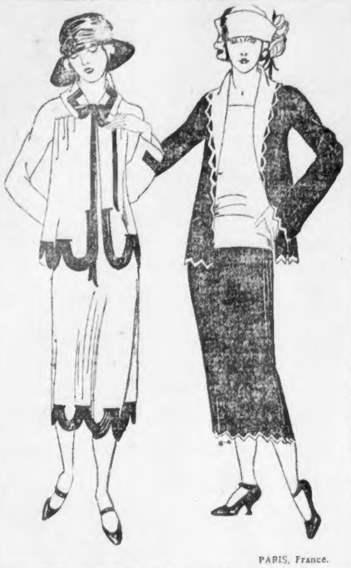
Fresh From Paris



PARIS, France.

It has been ventured by one couturier that the figure of the American woman is best adapted to the short coat. This may or may not be the case, but at least it may be said to her credit that she wears a short coat equally as well as she does a long one. The two tailleurs sketched above have several points in common, which are to be smart for Autumn—length and box suggestion of coat, style of sleeves and the use of braid as trimming. Gray Canton crepe makes one model (left), with its scallops of silk Hercules braid in a deeper tone of gray. The turned-over collar ties with narrow gray cire ribbon and the sporting little untrimmed hat is of black crepe.

All the edges of a dark blue taffeta tailleur (right), including the deep white satin collar, are finished with points of white silk braid. Sections of the taffeta, accordion-pleated, are inserted at each side of the skirt, which is otherwise perfectly plain. The white satin over-blouse, without trimming, is in exceptionally good taste.

NEW LAW ENDS STREET TRADE TANGLE

All Minor Vendors Must Get Badge, Which Takes Place of Certificate

Far reaching in its application is the new street trades law which becomes effective August 18. This provides that all minors under sixteen before they may engage or be employed in any street trade must first secure a badge from the officer authorized to issue employment certificates.

Condition for securing a badge is proof that the minor is twelve years of age or over. The issuing officer may refuse to issue a badge in the case of minors that are physically or mentally unable to do the work in question in addition to the regular school attendance required by law.

The new law removes a number of inconsistencies between the child labor law and the street trades regulations. Prior to its enactment the State regulations as to licensing and minimum age for street trades applied only to places of over 50,000 inhabitants.

HAD LITTLE PROTECTION.

In smaller communities boys of any age could engage in the work. No badge was required and consequently little protection afforded. Minors under fourteen, however, could not in any city or town be employed in this work.

For example, boys under fourteen could not be employed by newspaper offices or newsdealers in the sale or distribution of papers on the streets on a newspaper route. They could and did accomplish the same result, however, by purchasing the papers and engaging in the sale and distribution for themselves. It was a legal distinction, but without material difference so far as child labor was concerned.

LAW ENDS TANGLE.

This inconsistency is removed by a provision of the new law that a boy over twelve may engage or be employed in any city or town in the sale or distribution of newspapers, magazines or other periodicals in a street or on a newspaper route provided he meets the requirements as to licensing, hours of employment and school attendance.

Licenses are extended to cover all forms of street trades and all cities and towns irrespective of size. The age limit is fixed at twelve years for all boys, and the hour limits outside of school hours, from 6 a. m. to 8 p. m. for all minors twelve to fourteen years of age.

SUIT FOLLOWS FAVOR TO PIGS IN LAWRENCE

Company Denied Garbage Now Given Porkers Within City Asks Damages

Lawrence, Aug. 4.—"Pigs is pigs," ruled Edward C. Callahan, head of the health and charities department of this city when he stopped sending Lawrence garbage to the Blue Hog Breeding Company of Wilmington, so that Lawrence pigs might enjoy the discarded table refuse of local families and restaurants.

The Wilmington concern will now sue the city of Lawrence for breach of contract, charging the loss of $100,000.

George W. Griffith of the company took the matter up with Lawrence Chamber of Commerce.

He claimed that the city has violated the terms of its contract by granting permits to local pig owners to keep the porkers within the city limits; the pigs thus kept in Lawrence ate garbage which rightfully belonged to the pigs owned by the Wilmington concern it is claimed.

It was necessary to sell 1700 hogs at sacrifice as a result of the loss of Lawrence garbage, Griffith said.

(Beauty Topics)

With the aid of a delatone paste, it is an easy matter for any woman to remove every trace of hair or fuzz from face, neck and arms. Enough of the powdered delatone and water is mixed into a thick paste and spread on the hairy surface for about 2 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed. This completely removes the hair, but to avoid disappointment, get the delatone in an original package.—Advertisement.

SWIMMING RACE ENDORSED BY MAYOR QUINN

Cambridge Girls Urged to Enter; Pictures to Be Taken at Magazine Beach

Entrants for the one-and-one-half-mile and 200-foot races to be held at the Charles River Basin in connection with the annual water carnival of the Boston American Saturday afternoon, August 27, are enrolling in large numbers. The large number already listed indicates that the race will be a thriller from start to finish.

Several practice swims for the event have already been held at Magazine Beach, Cambridge, as well as at Tenean Beach, Dorchester. Girls from these sections are among those signed up for the big race. Mayor Quinn of Cambridge is interested in the function and wants to see some girl from his city win the major prize and the title of New England amateur girl champion for 1921.

"I cannot urge too strongly the necessity of Cambridge swimming girls getting into the big race conducted by the Boston American," said Mayor Quinn. "I have been interested in past water carnivals run under such auspices in the Charles River Basin. They are splendid undertakings. We have some fine swimming girls in the University City and there is no reason in the world why they can't beat the girls from Boston and other New England cities in what I consider one of the best health giving sports in the athletic line. It is my earnest wish to see our girls carry off all the honors in the coming race."

PICTURES TO BE TAKEN.

The Swimming Editor and a camera man will visit Magazine beach, Cambridge, Saturday, between 12 noon and 4 p. m., and it is hoped that all girls who wish to enter their names as participants in the race will be on hand in their bathing costumes ready to be photographed. Mayor Quinn is anxious to have them there between these hours so that when their pictures are taken and later produced in the Boston American the people of neighboring cities and towns will know that Cambridge girls are the peer of others when it comes to beauty and physical development.

Next week photographs will be taken of swimming girls at beaches in other sections in and about Boston. The place to be visited by the camera man will be announced ahead of time in this column. Girls are invited to be ready to face the camera.

DUAL PURPOSE.

The purpose of the water carnival is of a dual nature, to encourage swimming among girls and to provide an afternoon's outing for fathers, mothers, sisters and brothers. The Esplanade, which runs along the sea wall from the foot of Revere street to Harvard bridge, is an ideal spot from which to witness the race. It will easily accommodate 150,000 persons without crowding.

At past races and water sports run under the direction of the Boston American as many as 100,000 persons have enjoyed these functions. No less authorities than Superintendent West and Lieutenant Albert Chapman of the Metropolitan Park police sponsor this statement. They are an authority on crowds. It is figured that the coming race will be the means of attracting as large a crowd. The air is exhilarating at the Basin and the time spent there during the race will be beneficial to all concerned.

Girls, it costs nothing to enter your names as contestants in the big swim. The way is open to you to enroll. Fill out the blank elsewhere on this page and mail it to the Swimming Editor, Boston American, No. 30 Summer street, Boston, Mass.

POWELL IS NOT SHIPPING BOARD MEMBER

Quincy Man to Undertake Reorganization of Certain Departments

Commenting on the announcement from Washington by Chairman Lasker of the Shipping Board that Joseph W. Powell of Quincy, former president of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation, and former vice-president of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, will undertake the reorganization of certain departments of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, Mr. Powell said today that contrary to the impression gained in many quarters from this statement, he had not been appointed a member of the Shipping Board. In fact he had declined an invitation to become vice-president and eneral manager of the board.

What Mr. Powell has specifically consented to do is to give his services to the shipping board for three months, without salary, on the understanding that he is to have absolute authority to handle certain matters placed in his charge. These matters are the reorganization of the financial, auditing and sales departments, the last including sales of ships and shipyards. At the end of the three months he will be occupied with personal business matters which he undertook some months ago.

Mr. Powell, who has just returned from a trip abroad, said today that he was leaving for the woods tonight for a month in order to get thoroughly "fit" before assuming his new job.

Westboro Women's Ages Given in New Directory

Westboro, Aug. 4.—Street directories containing the ages of all the women of Westboro have been issued by the town assessors, and copies of the little books, just seventy-six pages long, are more in demand today than the family Bible.

It is the first time that such a book, containing the ages of Westboro women above twenty, has ever been issued.

Some of the mere males of the town are in hot dispute over the figures published in the little books. They declare that a number of women underestimated their ages all the way from five to ten years. Their arguments, they insist, are based upon pigtail days when the women, now mothers, went to the village school with them.

HEIRS MUST NOT MARRY OUTSIDE JEWISH FAITH

Will Be Disinherited If They Do Under Allston Woman's Will

Marriage outside the Jewish faith of any of the children of the late Mrs. Jennie D. Stener of No. 67 Chester street, Allston, will be punished by disinheritance under the provisions of her will, filed in Suffolk County courthouse today.

Mrs. Stener, a wealthy owner of real estate who died on July 19, left all her property in trust with her husband, Bernard Stener, who is to share the income with their four children.

The trust will terminate on the death of Stener, who is given the power to restore any child to the right to participate in his wife's estate in case of violation of the provisions of the will.

The children are Mrs. Henrietta S. Finer, No. 15 Fuller street, Brookline; Mrs. Celia S. Wasserman, No. 1177 Commonwealth avenue, Allston, and Elizabeth and Marion Stener, both of No. 67 Chester street.

CHILDREN CRY FOR MISSING MOTHER

Foul Play Feared in Disappearance of Mrs. John E. Powers of South Boston

Former Policeman John E. Powers of the Athens street station, South Boston, who lives at No. 5 Marshfield street, Roxbury, fears that his wife, Inez, who has been missing two weeks, has met with foul play. He has enlisted the services of detectives and the Boston police force to assist in locating her.

Mrs. Powers is twenty-eight years old, five feet eight inches tall and weighs 120 pounds. She has dark hair and blue eyes and is pretty. She left home to make some purchases in a store at Clifton and Marshfield streets, Roxbury, and wore no outer garments or hat, which lends color to the foul play theory of the husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Powers were married more than nine years ago and have three children, John, seven years old; Frank C., six, and Robert, four. While Mr. Powers is away at work there is no one to care for the children. The youngest keeps constantly crying "Mamma, mamma, where are you?"

Mr. Powers is now engaged in the express business.

..."Then they killed my mother and brother and sister and baby brother, and burned the house. When I got back from the hills with my load of wood I found out all that. I started out for revenge. I've killed ten already and I'll keep on until the last one in Siberia is either killed or driven out."

THE story of the boy Ivan the Jap killer is more thrilling than any book of fiction you have ever read. It will hold, fascinate and thrill you because it's all true. This and many other equally absorbing articles of world interest appear in HEARST'S INTERNATIONAL for August.

Frazier Hunt turns up this month in Siberia, with the startling true story of Ivan, the fourteen-year-old veteran, whose entire family was slain by the Japanese, and who, in vengeance, has himself killed ten of the invading Japanese soldiers.

> "He was only a kid, a fourteen-year-old kid who should have been in school—had there been any school for him. For days I'd heard tales of this firebrand of a boy who had sworn to die fighting the Japanese. Finally I reached the Partizan detachment he had joined and his comrades in arms brought him around to me."

"LILIOM"

The "Play of the Month," for August. The great Budapest sensation, by Franz Molnar, which follows the "barker" for Madam Muskat's carousel through his wicked, sordid, earthly romance—and then to the gates of Heaven, whence he is sent for a long, purifying period to Hell; finally to return to earth to do just one good deed, as the price of admission to Heaven.

> "He eats our bread and soup," his wife complains to their daughter, born after his death, "and has the impudence to slander our dead!'

Read "THE WORLD TODAY"

A brilliant collection of international topics in Hearst's International

IN the rapid development of its international policy, HEARST'S INTERNATIONAL comes forward with a striking section, "THE WORLD TODAY," a most unusual collection of absorbingly interesting newsbits which either find no place in the daily press, or are smothered in a mass of less interesting detail.

"America's New Prosperity and Foreign Trade," by Charles H. Sabin, President of the Guarantee Trust Company, will prove of tremendous interest to those whose eyes are bent overseas—supplemented by such topics as "Money Talks in Mexico," "Will India Free Britain," "What Has Russia to Sell?" and "An All-American League."

The interview with Eugene Meyer, Jr., Chairman of the War Finance Corporation, by William G. Shepherd, is also most opportune. Mr. Meyer's grasp of our business situation, coupled with broad vision and determination to get matters to a practical basis, makes his statement of purposes of the first importance.

If you need a million dollars to handle your foreign business, you must read this Meyer interview.

Those returning from Europe appreciate fully that America's greatest need and opportunity is to understand the true difficulties and real accomplishments of Europe's burdened nations. The editor of HEARST'S INTERNATIONAL has shown in this August number how really interesting these vital matters can be made.

DESERTION TALE CAUSES SUITS FOR $300,000

Former Private Sues Writer and Publishers of Book About Base Hospital

William F. Nickerson of Somerville, formerly a private in Medical Base Hospital No. 5, has filed suits for $100,000 each in East Cambridge court against the University Press, the Barta Press and Henry Lynam, military man and author.

The papers in the suit allege that Lynam, formerly commander of the hospital, in a book called "The Story of U. S. Army Base Hospital 5," charged Nickerson with deserting on January 26, 1919. This book was published by the University Press. The papers also alleged the same statement appears in another book by Lynam, entitled "Concerning Base Hospital 5," published by the Barta Press.

Nickerson, in the bill filed by his attorney, John L. Hurley of Malden, declares that, as a consequence of the charge against him, he has been unable to obtain work and has otherwise suffered.

CONNOLLY TELLS OF DEFIANCE OF IRISH WOMEN

Formed Guard of Honor to Victim in Face of Crown Rifles

TORTURED IRELAND

By JAMES B. CONNOLLY

Famous New England Author and Journalist.

Let a lorry come along and into the stone wall the car would be swept and smashed, and maybe, whoever was in it smashed with it. And no satisfaction afterwards.

"All right! Let us take a side (jaunting) car," I said.

But a side car would be too wide also. A man's legs would be on the outside of it and no telling what would happen. So we sailed out in what they call a "tub trap," a compact little four-wheeled thing in which our legs were safely tucked inside from the racing lorries or armored cars should we meet any along the way.

I went to Mrs. Dunlea's, one of a group of women who had been cruelly treated in Dungarvan. She was a widow. The English army does not war on women, such is the bunk they publish for the outside world to read, but Ireland is alive with women they have warred on.

There were half a dozen other women, three of them also widows, whom the Crown forces did their best to terrorize after destroying their property in Dungarvan.

To explain our visit to Mrs. Dunlea, I should say that some months before this a strong force of Black and Tans and military had been quartered on Dungarvan. One fight the first lorry had surrendered. Those in the second lorry jumped out and ran all the way back to Dungarvan without bothering to see what happened their comrades in the first lorry. Two lorries which came to their relief did little relieving. They were also stopped, and all four lorries burned by the I. R. A.

HICKEY EXECUTED.

The I. R. A. men gathered in all rifles and ammunition, of which they were much in need at the time, but set free the prisoners, all but one, a Sergeant Hickey. He being an Irishman and, according to all laws of the republic, a traitor to his country, the I. R. A. held him for trial.

It seems they gave, or had given him a chance to renounce his Crown fealty, but he had not done so, so they gave him a court-martial, condemned him to death and executed him.

Next day some I. R. A. men came to the scene of the fight to see if any arms or ammunition had been overlooked. A crown force had been waiting for them. A skirmish took place, in which one man on each side was killed. The Black and Tans tied the dead I. R. A. man, Fitzgerald, to a lorry, let his legs drag on the road behind and so hauled him into Dungarvan.

There, after stealing the boots and leggins off the body, they threw it into a corner of the garage, announcing at the same time that they would not give up the body to the dead man's family.

In Ireland, perhaps more than in any country in the world, it is a terrible thing to malhandle the dead. The people were so wrought up over this that when the military came to arrange to have their executed Sergeant Hickey buried, he being a Catholic, the workmen at the Catholic cemetery would not dig the grave. To get Hickey's grave dug the Black and Tans agreed to give up the body of Fitzgerald.

DEFIED BY WOMEN.

Hickey was buried as agreed upon, but when the Dungarvan people prepared to bury Fitzgerald, Captain Thomas broke his agreement. This same Captain Thomas had been captured in the fight and released with the other prisoners by the I. R. A.

Thomas now mounted a machine gun in a house which commanded the cemetery and proclaimed that he would mow down the pall bearers as they entered with Fitzgerald's body. Thereupon the Women Volunteers formed a guard of honor and, defying Thomas to shoot them, bore the body into the cemetery.

Everywhere in the south and west of Ireland trains of lorries had been held up and captured with all their equipment by the I. R. A. and in very few cases had the crown forces showed much fight. The fear which the crown people had for I. R. A. men was becoming a matter for joking.

The Black and Tans and soldiery of Dungarvan being unable to cope with the I. R. A. must have made up their minds to take it out of the unarmed citizenry.

The action of the Women Volunteers in the Dungarvan Cemetery no doubt increased the rage of the military in the barracks. They would teach the people to behave so that in the future, etc. It was at about this time that Dublin Castle had given out the order that thereafter whenever the crown forces were attacked, the crown would destroy houses near the scene of the attack by way of reprisal.

Hence, and inasmuch as certain householders living near the scene of the recent attack on His Majesty's forces by the rebels near Dungarvan had not informed the local authorities of the intended attack, therefore, and so on.

Continued Tomorrow.

This young woman, whose eloquence in behalf of Ireland and the Irish cause had thrilled thousands throughout the country, will be heard here, in Cambridge, South Boston, Fall River, and other Massachusetts and New England cities this Summer.

Miss MacSwiney is expected here next Monday, and her first local address will be delivered that evening in Brattle Hall, Harvard Square, Cambridge, before the students of the Harvard Summer School.

Her tour will be conducted under the auspices of the Massachusetts Council of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic.

SENATE REVOLT ON WAR DEBT BILL GROWS

Move to Oppose Giving Mellon Free Hand in Liquidating Loans Gathers Strength

Washington, Aug. 4.—The movement in the Senate against the Penrose bill granting the secretary of the treasury unrestricted authority to liquidate the $10,000,000,000, Allied war debt has gathered momentum.

While no attempt to call up the measure is anticipated in the immediate future, its opponents are biding their time, quietly mobilizing their forces in preparation for the fight it will precipitate.

Their preliminary activities and their private survey of the situation, it is said, have disclosed such widespread antagonism to the administration bill that they are predicting a sweeping revision before it is passed, if not its utter defeat.

Leading the opposition on the Republican side are Senator Johnson of California, Senator Borah of Idaho and Senator La Follette of Wisconsin.

On the Democratic side they have the support of Senator Underwood, Alabama, the minority floor leader, Senator Reed of Missouri, Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, Senator McKellar of Tennessee and Senator Simmons of North Carolina.

With these men forming the nucleus of the insurgent movement, the outlook for the measure admittedly is dark, even though the heavy "regular" majority lines up solidly behind the administration, as is expected.

The issue on which the opponents will fight is that the Secretary of the Treasury already has sufficient power to refund the Allied indebtedness under the Liberty Loan acts which authorized the war loans.

They will also contend that to grant the Secretary exclusive authority to handle the debts at his discretion would be too great a power to invest in any one government official, regardless of his integrity or patriotism.

U. S. Regiment on Rhine Forced Home by Army Cutdown

Washington, Aug. 4.—One of the American regiments on the Rhine, or the greater part of it, will be returned to the United States, it was stated by War Department officials today.

The effect of the last orders regarding the disposition of the army is to put one of the Rhine regiments on the "inactive list."

The place of this regiment, they say at the department, is at home, deducting whatever number may be necessary to fill up vacancies in the other regiments. As all the other regiments practically are at war strength, probably 2,000 troops will be brought home. No date has been fixed, however, for the event.

WOMAN BEATS OFF TIGERS IN PARADE

Animal Trainer Fights Beasts as Wheeled Cage Careens Through Streets

Aurora, Ill., Aug. 4.—In a wildly careening wagon cage, drawn by runaway horses, Mabel Stark, an animal trainer, armed only with a whip, subdued three infuriated tigers during a circus parade here.

Miss Stark succeeded in driving the tigers into one of two compartments in the cage, where circus attendants, with long steel bars, subdued them so thoroughly that one had to be shot.

TRAP OVERLADEN TRUCKS BY NEW 'LOADOMETER'

Roadside Weighing Device Lands Many in Toils in New Device

The "loadometer" will catch you if you don't watch out.

This line is directed at drvers of motor trucks. Fifteen drivers were summoned before th Dedham and Waltham courts during th past two days charged with overloading their machines. The "loadometer" did the trick in convicting most of them.

The "loadometer" is a lifting jack, which also measures the weight of the load on any given wheel. Under the Massachusetts law not more than 800 pounds for every inch of tire and in no case more than 14 tons total load is allowed. A fine of $100 may be imposed and violators may be required to pay the damage caused highways as the result of overloading. Eight drivers were found guilty in Dedham court yesterday and six were tried in Waltham court today.

The campaign inaugurated by the state public works department is the result of the discovery that thousands of dollars damage has been done to state highways by overloaded trucks during the recent hot weather when the surface of the roads was softened.

Arthur F. Porter, of Newton, who is in charge of the campaign, stops all suspicious looking trucks and tests the weight on each axle with his "loadometer." If the weight on any wheel is more than permitted by law, the driver is summoned to appear in court next day.

It is said that if flagrant violations of the loading law continue the drivers may be ordered to take off excess weight and leave it by the roadside until other trucks can come for it.

KIDDIES GIVE SKIN TO SAVE GIRL'S LEG

"We'd Do It Again," Declared Boy and Girl After Heroism

"Gee! It was nothing, I'd go through it again!"

"Me too!"

With these terse sentences did sister and brother, Doris, thirteen years old, and Frank, fifteen, daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert A. Hills, No. 151 South street, Waltham, dismiss their act of sacrifice after giving a total of thirty-two square inches of skin to be grafted upon the crushed legs of Miss Ethel Krinsky, fifteen years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Krinsky, No. 145 South street, Waltham.

The boy and his sister are convalescents at the Newton Hospital.

"May God forever bless Doris and Frank," said Mrs. Krinsky with tears streaming down her face.

Physicians of the Newton Hospital declared to the Boston American today that the voluntary act of sacrifice has undoubtedly prevented amputation of the Krinsky girl's right leg. She is resting comfortably, and the physicians express confidence she will ultimately regain the use of her legs, which were crushed in an automobile accident six weeks ago.

The Hills children are in fine spirits, and according to hospital attaches, will be discharged Friday or Saturday.

The three operations were performed by Dr. Frederick H. Paul, assisted by Drs. Frank G. Clark and Henry Watters.

Dr. Paulinformed a Boston American reporter that Miss Krinsky's case is no less remarkable than the Hills children. Since her injuries six weeks ago Miss Krinsky, a sophomore in Waltham High School, has laid at the Newton Hospital with no indication of improvement. She sustained leg injuries that entirely denuded her of skin, extending from the mid-thigh to the mid-calf of the right leg.

Another member of the Hills family, Mabel, aged seventeen, was the first to volunteer. She is a chum of the injured girl and was with her when the accident occurred. Doris and Frank were no sooner informed of her intention than they insisted that they be the ones to give their skin, because they were freed from school for the Summer.

WARN NATIONALITY WON'T SAVE RUM SHIPS

New York, Aug. 4.—"The UUnited States government will seize ships of French, Italian, British or any other nationality which anchor outside a United States harbor and engage in smuggling liquor, drugs or anything else," said Colonel William Hayward, United States District Attorney, today.

Girl Rearrested After Term for Forgery on Like Charge

MISS SADIE DROHAN.

Miss Sadie Drohan, twenty-six years old, found police officers waiting for her on the steps of Charles street jail when she left the place after completing a three months' sentence for forgery. She was promptly rearrested on another forgery charge.

Her case has been continued until August 15, while her career is being investigated.

Miss Drohan, who lives on Montgomery street, South End, is said to have forged the name of Hode G. Odlan, of the Arlington Studio, Boston, to a check for $30 on the Old Colony Trust Company. She is also known as Bessie King and Bessie Cashman.

BRITAIN WON'T RELINQUISH GRIP ON SEAS

New Dreadnaught Program Blasts Hopes of Naval Base End

By International News Service.

Washington, Aug. 4.—Great Britain has no intention of relinquishing her position of mistress of the seas at the forthcoming Washington disarmament conference.

This is the interpretation placed today in high naval quarters here on the action of the British admiralty and House of Commons in voting to go ahead with the immediate construction of four powerful new battleships of the super-hood type.

BRITAIN WILL HOLD LEAD.

The acquisition of these great dreadnaughts will allow Great Britain to retain her naval supremacy, which was seriously endangered by American and Japanese building programs. Should England have stood still in naval building, and America and Japan completed their present programs, the three greatest naval powers in the world would have gathered around the conference table in Washington on nearly an even footing.

As it is, Great Britain will enter the conference with the greatest navy in the world and then fight for "proportionate reduction" which, if adopted, will permit her to emerge from the conference still the world's leading naval power.

The proportionate reduction plan would decrease navies in proportion to the strength with which they entered the conference, leaving the relative positions unchanged, and this is the policy which American naval experts expect Great Britain to support here next Autumn.

AWAIT U. S., JAPAN ATTITUDE.

The attitude of the United States toward this plan of reduction has not been made clear, nor has that of Japan. Wide discrepancies exist in the tables of the world's naval strength. No two of them will agree in any particular and, if the American navy has accurate figures on the number and classes of ships possessed by Great Britain and Japan, they never have been made public.

EDWARDS TO REVIEW LABOR DAY PARADE

Major General Edwards will be invited to review the parade of Boston's organized labor on Labor Day, it was announced today, following a meeting in Wells Memorial Hall of the parade committee of the Central Labor Union. WANT WOMAN AT DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE

Plan of Good Housekeeping Is Indorsed by Women's Organizations

President Harding will be asked to appoint an American woman to attend the disarmament conference as a representative of her sex, it was announced by William F. Bigelow, editor of Good Housekeeping in his editorial, which will appear in the September number of Good Housekeeping. Mr. Bigelow says:

"Civilization has had its endurance test, it barely escaped defeat. It cannot hope for escape again. There will be no safety anywhere; no one can doubt it who knows of the preparations which are being made when the first world war came to an end. The men who will gather in Washing- know that extinction faces the nations know that extiction faces the nations if they ever fight again. Because the time has come when women must be called on to suffer and die in any war their country undertakes, it has also come when they should have a voice in deciding whether there shall be war. We call upon President Harding to appoint representatives of the women of America to take part in the discussions of disarmament, and problems of the Pacific and Far East. Women's voice is being raised with authority in business, in church and school and State; by every right of her womanhood and her citizenship it should be heard when the nations meet to discuss the passing of the guns."

Organizations representing an aggregate of about 10,000,000 women have endorsed Good Housekeeping's request. Among them are the following: The National Women's Trade Union League of America, the League of American Pen Women, General Federation of Women's Club (membership over 2,000,000), National Council of Women of the United States, the Women's Press Club, Chicago Federation of Women High School Teachers, League of Advertising Women of New York, New York League of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, National League of Women Voters, Illinois Women's Press Association, Women's Bar Association of the District of Columbia, Women's National Book Association.

Lipton to Make Fifth Try to Lift Cup In 1923

Glasgow, Aug. 4.—Sir Thomas Lipton will make another effort in 1923 to lift the America's cup, he announced here today.

Sir Thomas said that a new yacht, to be christened Shamrock, would be built to meet an American yacht.

He said the challenge would be sent to the United States next year.

9,000 G. E. HELP AT LYNN FACE BIG PAY CUT

Officials to Get 5 Per Cent. Slash, Workers 10 Per Cent.

Nine thousand workers and officials of the General Electric Company plant in Lynn, will have their wages cut 5 per cent. for the officials and 10 per cent. for plant help and office workers, it was learned today from authoritative sources.

Notices that such a reduction will be put into effect, it is said, will be posted tomorrow throughout the big plant and the reduction is to be effective beginning next Monday.

This reduction follows a conference between officials and representatives of the works, spread over fifteen weeks. The company claims that orders have been very slack and the plant cannot continue in operation unless wages cost are reduced.

Just how the organized employees will take the cut, would not be expressed by their leaders today. They said that no word has been received by the union of such reduction, and until so informed officially, they will not conjecture.

DISABLED MAY HAVE SAILS ON ARMY BOATS

The ten army boats lying idle at the army base, South Boston, may be used for sails down the harbor for wounded and disabled soldiers, if the money can be raised to provide men to man the boats and fuel to run them, according to Colonel H. G. Learnard, chief of staff of the First Corps Area.

MILLIONAIRE'S SON HELD AS AUTO THIEF

All a Frameup, Insists Chicagoan With $10,000 Income

Chicago, Aug. 4.—Walter Keller, son of a Philadelphia millionaire and managing director of a food manufacturing concern at Hammond, Ind., is under arrest here today as an automobile thief. He was arrested, detectives assert, as he was removing a locked steering gear from an automobile and substituting a steering device of his own.

Keller, held at detention station, hotly denies he is an automobile thief and asserts his arrest is all a "big frameup."

CLAIM THEFTS TRACED.

Detectives assigned to stop the theft of automobiles from Grant Park assert, however, that the sale of several stolen cars has been traced to Keller. William Beardsley, owner of a garage, told the police he had disposed of several cars for Keller, who told him, Beardsley said, that he was acting as agent for men of Hammond who were out of work and desired to sell their machines.

Keller, according to the detectives, is managing director of the Hammond branch of the Pratt Food Company. His father, J. S. Keller, is head of the company and lives in Morton, a suburb of Philadelphia. The elder Kellar is said to be worth several million dollars.

HAS $10,000 YEARLY INCOME.

In Chicago, Keller lives at the Del Prado Hotel, in an apartment costing $2,700 annually. It is said that he has an income of more than $10,000 a year. His wife was formerly Mrs. Phyllis Service, daughter of a Mendota, Ill., merchant, and divorced wife of R. A. Service of Lacrosse, Wis. They were married last February.

Keller served as a lieutenant-colonel during the war, is a graduate of Swarthmore College and a member of numerous clubs in Philadelphia.

A Soothing Shave
Plus four things more

We wanted to give men the benefits of palm and olive oils in shaving.

We knew these softening, soothing oils were the best for the face—for 3,000 years that had been known. But the problem was to apply their balmy blend to a shaving cream.

It was not easy—though we certainly knew soap making well. Our creation of the finest toilet soap known had proved that.

We made up and tested scientifically 130 different kinds of shaving cream. All other known creams also were tested to learn their virtues and their faults. And step by step, and month by month, we improved formulas until perfection was reached in each quality desired.

Formula No. 130 was right

In this formula we found that at last the ideal shaving cream was attained. It proved superior on these tests:

It multiplies itself in lather 250 times. Just one-half gram—a bit of cream—proves plenty for a luxurious shave.

The oil coating on the beard is removed almost instantly. Within one minute the beard absorbs 15% of water—enough to soften the stubbornest beard. Such quick efficiency is astonishing.

The lather maintains its rich creamy fullness for ten minutes on the face. Plenty of time to shave.

The palm and olive oils are the supreme lubricant, soft and soothing to the skin. So the need for lotions is ended.

Now test it yourself

Millions have already adopted Palmolive Shaving Cream because of these superiorities.

COUNTESS TO GIVE PARIS A NEW THRILL

American Society Girl Will Appear as Aphrodite Dancer at Folies.

By C. F. BERTELLI.

Paris, Aug. 4.—Strange Countess [illegible] seventeen [illegible] Hutchins [illegible] the dancer [illegible] Folies Bergere [illegible] of the [illegible] society [illegible] in the [illegible] of her [illegible] was brought [illegible] New York [illegible].

NEED SECRETARY OF RAILROADS IN CABINET

Hapgood Says Weighty Traffic Problems of Nation Demand Relief

By NORMAN HAPGOOD.

Staff Correspondent of Boston American

Washington, Aug. 4.—The railroad [illegible] to be [illegible] bad [illegible] temporary [illegible] The [illegible] experts [illegible] of government serv[illegible] and [illegible].

Professor Ripley's report to the Interstate Commerce Commission will probably be published early in August or early in September. The gist of it [illegible] it provides for [illegible] combination of [illegible] roads, for more [illegible] agement and at the same time for [illegible] of a certain amount of competition.

A movement that is in its infancy, but that is likely to grow [illegible] to the appointment of a [illegible] called a Secretary of Transportation. The deeper the government [illegible] the railroad predicament, the more important this idea will have.

The Interstate Commerce Commission, in its earlier history, was [illegible] representative of the shipper. Recently it has rapidly become the representative of the railroads. If there were a Secretary of Transportation the commission would be [illegible] and [illegible] judicial function.

It would no longer fix rates, although it would hear cases of discrimination. The [illegible] attitude of the commission has had one decidedly useful result. It has [illegible] broken down the favorite alibi of the roads.

GOT ALL RAISES ASKED.

They used to say that they would be swimming in prosperity if they were allowed to make their own rates. For a year the commission has been giving them all the raises they asked for and the roads have demonstrated that higher rates certainly were not the cure.

The so-called settlement of the government with the roads is unfortunately not a settlement. For the enormous help brought by the government, with the money of the taxpayers, the roads in return give nothing.

They do not even abandon their preposterous claims about labor [illegible] they [illegible] them a[illegible] with the announcement that their [illegible] acceptance of the government's [illegible] without prejudice to their right to come into court with all their claims later if they choose.

FINANCING COSTLY.

Next to the failure to force the roads to make the settlement final [illegible] agreement was the contention that the advance to the roads constituted a drain on the treasury that it was not an appropriation.

That argument was knocked to pieces in the Senate and indeed it is scarcely one that grows [illegible] must [illegible] one feature of the [illegible] can be expected to [illegible] Nevertheless I was [illegible] and has been [illegible] over the country.

As a matter of fact the advance to the roads cost more to the government [illegible] issued [illegible] to make up [illegible].

A higher rate of interest will have to be paid to the public to take war corporation bonds [illegible] backed by the government than would have been paid on railroad bonds issued directly by the treasury.

SHOULD DROP LABOR CLAIMS.

When I first heard of the contemplated settlement I understood that a [illegible] loan of the people's money to the [illegible] was to be offset by a definite abandonment of the claims of the [illegible] as based on the alleged labor inefficiency.

That was the very least that ought to have been insisted on. Good bargaining by the government would have gone much further and forced a settlement of all the claims before [illegible] Lodge [illegible] and has wrecked the railroads."

SAVED FROM BANKRUPTCY.

That is the fable on which the [illegible] advocates proceed. The essential fact is that the government gave the roads back probably in as good a shape on the whole as it took them and at any rate the taking over of the roads saved them from bankruptcy. In December, 1917, their breakdown was flagrant. It was preposterous [illegible] taking them and carrying them [illegible] an unheard of crisis the government simply saved the [illegible] Lodge [illegible] the [illegible] a few months of [illegible] government [illegible].

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

MIKE GIBBONS ALWAYS BIG BOSTON FAVORITE BECAUSE OF CLASS

By JACK CONWAY.

Gus Platts, proud boss of Europe's middleweight division, was due to gaze upon the beauties of our fair city today. [illegible] Harvey informed Matchmaker Joe Goode of the Arena A. A. that he would have his star glove wielder here early so that [illegible] be well rested when he enters the ring with Mike Gibbons of St. Paul at the St. Botolph street [illegible] tomorrow night.

[illegible]

Few middleweight bouts of recent years have aroused as much local interest as tomorrow night's tussle. Maybe it is because Platts has never been knocked off his feet in 200 bouts, despite the fact he has clashed with such high-class warriors as Georges Carpentier and Johnny Basham.

Then, too, Mike Gibbons has always been a big Boston favorite. This is only natural as he is one of the most brilliant middleweights that ever pulled on a glove. There are a lot of persons well posted in ring affairs, who are of the opinion that Gibbons is the world's greatest middleweight.

No. His new manager, whom he hired to protect his title decided he wanted to change Siegal's style before meeting Shevlin. Sportsmen's Outing [illegible] a record [illegible] the bake.

When ill health or hard times hit you don't lie down—

It is a man who can "come back" that is a man worth while

IT IS SAID THAT ABOUT NINETY PER CENT OF MEN FAIL BETWEEN THE AGES OF 35 AND 50 AND VERY FEW EVER "COME BACK."

A good reason for many of these failures is plain. As man approaches middle age THE IRON IN HIS BLOOD IS APT TO THIN OUT and he then lacks the necessary iron in his body to give him the force, strength and vitality; the "IRON-WILL" and "iron determination" to carry him on to success. In his own mind HE ALWAYS THINKS HE IS GOING TO "COME BACK," but he is like a crippled deer that rises up on its four legs after being shot, only to fall back again.

EVERY DOCTOR knows the tremendous power of an IRON WILL to pull a patient through a critical illness. With an iron will, it often seems that nothing can kill you. Without it, a patient sometimes speedily collapses and dies from an apparently trivial cause.

Lack of iron in your blood not only undermines your health and robs you of your bodily and mental vigor but it weakens your WILL POWER. Without iron ALL THE "FIGHT," COURAGE and "GO AHEAD" in you is taken out and you begin to think it is "all over"—there's nothing more for you in life.

WITHOUT IRON YOUR BLOOD ALSO LOSES ITS POWER TO CHANGE FOOD INTO LIVING CELLS AND TISSUE and nothing you eat does you the proper amount of good—you do not get the full strength out of it. In fact sometimes the more you eat the more you starve, as your digestive organs are unable to handle much food when your blood lacks iron and you often think you have stomach trouble, when it isn't that at all. Simply eat less and take iron. There are 30,000,000,000,000 Red Blood Corpuscles in your blood and each one must have iron.

DON'T TRY TO "FOOL YOURSELF" into thinking you are a man of "blood and iron" when you have good reason to suspect that you are not, anyway let your doctor decide. Get him to make a "blood count" of your red blood corpuscles and SEE WHETHER YOU ARE A 50 PER CENT, A 75 PER CENT OR A 100 PER CENT IRON MAN. Or if you do not want to go to this trouble [illegible] and other [illegible] vegetables for two weeks and take organic iron like Nuxated Iron with them and at the end of that time see for yourself how much more strength, power and endurance you have. Nuxated Iron positively helps enrich your blood and put iron into it. It often increases your bodily and mental vigor in two weeks time and quickly helps revitalize your wornout exhausted nerves. There is nothing like filling your blood with good old iron to give you the courage, strength and force to fight the battles of life. NUXATED IRON is organic iron like the iron in your blood and not metallic or mineral iron which people usually take. The fact that you may have taken other forms of iron without benefit does not prove Nuxated Iron will not help you—Try it on our guarantee below.

DON'T TRY TO "FOOL" YOURSELF INTO THINKING YOU ARE A KEEN 100% IRON MAN WHEN YOU HAVE REASON TO SUSPECT THAT YOU ARE NOT.

Iron starvation of your blood may be the cause of all your troubles. How to tell is explained in the accompanying article.

Manufacturer's Guarantee. Nuxated Iron is not a secret remedy but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated and does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. Each tablet of genuine Nuxated Iron is stamped as follows: N and the words Nuxated Iron are stamped into each bottle of tablets, so that the public may not be led into accepting inferior substitutes. The manufacturers guarantee satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed by all good druggists.

NUXATED IRON ENRICHES THE BLOOD—GIVES YOU NEW STRENGTH AND ENERGY

CUBS SHOW NEW LIFE AGAINST THE BRAVES

By NICK FLATLEY

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 4.—The exploring Braves went back to the single game system this afternoon, taking on the Cubs in a lone contest. The Cubs looked like a soft spot for the [illegible] but the team showed a new flock of life [illegible] and it must be admitted that licking them isn't [illegible] ing the Reds or Pirates.

The whole W[illegible] the eastern [illegible] keep [illegible] a [illegible] would [illegible]

Getting closer to the roof is harder than climbing a greased pole, but our athletes keep hoping that the grease will wear off and a few lucky breaks skyrocket them up with the other leaders.

* * *

Slim John Wat[illegible] ered from his [illegible], was [illegible] to check this afternoon with [illegible] the enemy [illegible] oppose him. It was the latter youth who [illegible] such a splendid game in Boston [illegible] went down to defeat when B[illegible] introduced [illegible] the last d[illegible] wallops of the [illegible]

Watson warmed up several times Wednesday and appeared just as good as he was before [illegible] collected a few walwa[illegible] germs.

Manager Mitchell was a bit sore about dropping the second contest in the bargain bill, but he found a gleam of hope in the way the Braves got hitting again.

"[illegible] was soaked," he said, "just the same way I was when we were on our last western swing and started winning ball games. All we need to keep up a normal hitting and [illegible] as if [illegible] that now.

"All through the big Pirate series the Braves [illegible] ball [illegible] well [illegible]. But they're getting the knack back and that's going to mean a lot of wins.

"We have the pitching and everything else a winning ball club needs. Even in the slump we have managed to break even and that's a very hopeful sign for the future."

The battling Braves stumbled over one of the many obstacles that beset the path of pennant trailers and consequently divided a double-header here with the Cubs yesterday, when it appeared as if the Mitchmen had a couple all won and a eight gain chalked up on the flying Pirates.

Joe Oeschger had it on the great Alexander in the opener, though it took a spirited ninth inning surge to put the contest in the [illegible] chest. John Scott followed with a finely pitched fray for seven rounds. Then the Bruins began to plaster John. They knocked him for several goals and kept the battering up when Hugh McQuillan hopped in there.

* * *

The result of it all was that the natives flailed on four runs in their [illegible]

[illegible] won again, so the Braves are now perched six and a half [illegible] from the crest. That one defeat meant the margin of a whole [illegible], which is a lot these days. The Braves, it might be mentioned, won by a 5 to 3 score, and were erased 7 to 5.

* * *

The Cubs have been doormats for [illegible] but they perk[illegible] [illegible] the Braves arrived [illegible] showed [illegible] pep than has been the [illegible] day. There were several decisions on the bases by the venerable Robert Emslie, but as [illegible] against both teams at [illegible] didn't make any difference.

* * *

Those adverse to the Cubs raised the pop bottle brigade to start firing [illegible] sight for the President of the league, John Heydler, was [illegible] of the biggest rows of the season. Will Killefer didn't have any disputes back of the [illegible] as the [illegible] debaters were all busy arguing with Ol' Robert.

* * *

The quarrels didn't change anything, but they helped to enliven things a little bit, which is more or less a blessing when double headers are going on.

Looks out here now as if Johnny Evers was about to retire from the management of the Cubs. John was [illegible] and didn't appear at the double header. Bill Killefer ran the team, and incidentally was [illegible] for [illegible] lines for saying mean things in the final joust.

The club officials haven't given out a thing regarding the troubles with the Trojan but they were more or less [illegible] when the [illegible] Cubs staged an uprising and you can just about figure that means a new pilot here.

Evers is a bit too temperamental anyhow to handle a ball club that has as many assistant managers as the Cubs boast. All the directors like to have a bit to say and the manager must be a diplomat, or come in for censure from higher up.

The Braves emerged from their batting slump in the initial struggle and bombarded Alexander for thirteen safeties. Ray Powell led the assault with four out of as many chances and Captain Walt Southworth was a close second with a trio of base knocks, one a double.

The women in London have started a new fad and are trimming their hats with fruits and vegetables. Most of the big produce merchants in England have become milliners.

But a cabbage bird of paradise costs you more.

Women who can't afford these trim their hats with banana plumes.

A Spirited and Swiftly Moving Romance of Hearts and High Society, by the Greatest Living Master of Fiction

WHAT HAS HAPPENED.

Dick Quarren, [illegible] idler and spendthrift, but clever and good looking, has fallen desperately in love with Strelsa Leeds. She has had one unfortunate matrimonial experience, and since her advent into New York high society has admirers by the score. Quarren meets her first at a masked ball given by Molly Wycherly, wins an hour out of her life on a wager and refrains from kissing her, as he tells her he is eager to do. She tells him there can be nothing serious between them, but she asks him to always think well of her. The Dankmere galleries are opened and Quarren takes a few days off at Witch Hollow. Strelsa tells him she is to marry Langley Sprowl. He tells her that he loves her. Strelsa [illegible] to him the story of her marriage to Leeds. He returns to town and finds Westguard giving a lively party in the art gallery. Quarren hires a pretty stenographer. Dankmere falls in love with her.

Quarren rinsed his hand and [illegible] painter's blouse, mounted the basement [illegible] supported by a footman, waddled in, panting.

Mrs. Sprowl Comes In.

"Tell your master I want to see [illegible] I don't mean that fool of an Englishman, I mean Mr. Quar— Good Lord! Ricky, is that [illegible] ago I swore I'd never enter a house which was not basement-built and had an elevator! . . . Hand me one of those fans. And if there's any water in the house not swarming with typhoid germs, get me a glass of it."

He brought her a tumbler of spring water; she panted and gulped and fanned and panted her [illegible]

Presently she dismissed the footman and turned her heavily flushed face on Quarren. The rolls of fat crowded the lace on her neck, perspiration glistened under her sparkling eyes.

"How are you?" she inquired.

Here's a New Romance Within This Romance

Drawn by Charles Dana Gibson

The Earl of Dankmere, who is captivated by pretty Miss Vining

The little Earl of Dankmere, who goes fifty-fifty with Quarren in the sale of his ancestral art treasures, falls in love with Jessie Vining, the young lady who acts as typewriter, filing clerk and secretary to the Dankmere Galleries. Miss Vining was employed in Langly Sprowl's private office, but being very pretty, found it best to leave the presence of the millionaire, which is a high recommendation in Quarren's eyes.

"Why not? Why should I have thought that your talents amounted to more than ornaments?"

She laughed at that, and he did too; and she gulped her glass of water empty and refused more.

TRUE GENEROSITY

ALWAYS "DOING THINGS" FOR PEOPLE

THE PAYING GUEST

WOMAN HITS ON NOVEL MONEY-MAKING IDEA

By Loretto C. Lynch

A [illegible] she [illegible] a novel plan.

It was a woman [illegible] large department store that first [illegible] me about Mrs. Holmes' Retreat. [illegible]

Seems that when a tired business person left the office on Saturday afternoon he or she went directly by train to Mrs. Holmes's [illegible] had [illegible] your favorite [illegible] And while you were [illegible] water of the temperature you liked [illegible] Your bath over, you were ready to sink into a big chair by the large window of the bedroom. But while you were bathing Mrs. Holmes was making ready [illegible] tray [illegible] liked [illegible] dinner time.

If you desired you came to the dining room. If you did not care to dress again, you had your meal in the room.

By Sunday morning you were beginning to like the place so well that you [illegible] wished it was only [illegible] Mrs. [illegible] brought your fa[illegible] you, but [illegible] was one of [illegible] about Mrs. [illegible] frosty morn[illegible] of the year [illegible] breakfast of baked [illegible] broiled [illegible] fresh [illegible] waffles with maple syrup [illegible] and the best [illegible] breakfast tray [illegible] from the garden and sometimes a tiny branch of colorful goldenrod.

Great care was taken to make each article served highly attractive. For Mrs. Holmes realized, as too many country boarding house keepers fail to realize, that she was catering to people who were not starving and therefore ought to be [illegible] She knew her guests were used to the best but they were tired folks, overworked, and that their appetite needed coaxing.

Dinner was served at 1:30 o'clock. By 5 the guests were ready for the train home if they did not stay over until Monday morning.

A Melancholy Prospect

Mother: "Do not look so miserable, Bennie, [illegible] has passed the crisis [illegible] her illness, and [illegible] get well."

Bennie (tearfully): "I know it. And now of course, she will want to eat all the good things sent in to her every day herself."

Hints for the Household

Spinach and eggs are both plentiful, and to save time poaching eggs for the dish, cook the spinach in the usual way and place it on a flat dish, and take out portions by pressing a tumbler over them; these can be piled onto the remaining spinach. Into the holes left by the tumbler drop the eggs and pop the dish into the oven, where the eggs will set in a few minutes.

FINANCE AND BUSINESS

By B. C. Forbes

It all gets back to the personal equation, to a man's character, to his reputation, to his personality, to his ability for doing things and, not least, his capacity for inspiring confidence among his friends.

* * *

Not a week passes, scarcely a day passes, without someone coming to me to ask:

"How can I raise capital for my business?"

The procession during recent monthes has been liveller than ever before. Manifestly, the need for finding money to keep businesses alive has been unprecedentedly pressing.

* * *

Really, a great many men who ought to know better have an entirely wrong idea about what they are entitled to expect from others. Not a few think that, because they have been able to organize a small business and earn fairly good profits, they have a right to demand that additional capital be furnished them to double, triple or quadruple their organization.

"Can't you see that this proposition is absolutely sound?" they ask impatiently. "Why shouldn't I get all the capital I need to branch out? Am I not entitled to it?"

* * *

Others come with nothing but some idea for launching a project. Others bring along an outline of some brand of new invention which they are certain will make everyone who becomes identified with it a millionaire. Others have spent their all in acquiring a small or moderate plant and installing machinery, and then find that they haven't capital to swing the business. Others, again, explain that they made wonderful profits during two or three years of the war boom, but confess that they used up all their money in one way or another and that they are now faced with bankruptcy unless they can get new capital to tide them over these hard times—although, in some cases, it is clear that neither the man nor the business is fundamentally sound. A few who come are in pretty good shape financially to handle the business they are doing, but are eager to expand many fold. "All we need is more capital," they remark, as if this ought to be the easiest thing in the world to obtain.

* * *

What can be done under such circumstances as these here outlined? How can capital be raised by individuals or small concerns?

* * *

I usually begin by asking what their own bank has to say on the subject. The reply usually is either that the bank they do business with is too small to help, or that, while it is friendly, it isn't disposed to advance anything like the sum desired. Next, I usually ask a man about his standing among his friends and among those with whom he does business. Has he any well-to-do friends who have faith in him? Does he know any moneyed men who are familiar with his business? Has he any wealthy relative who would feel disposed to help him?

* * *

Very rarely are the replies to such queries encouraging. Ofter the comeback is something like this:

"What I had in mind was issuing bonds or stocks. I thought you could tell me who could place my securities quickly and at reasonable cost to me. What Wall Street firm would you recommend?"

A little questioning frequently reveals that the visitor has "shopped" around the Wall Street district and has either been turned down flatly or has met some shyster promoter who has offered to make an offering of bonds or stocks provided he gets anywhere from 50 per cent. to 75 per cent. of the proceeds—and gets all of the first few thousands received to pay him for his time and expense. Some of the capital-seeking parties are disposed to enter into such an arrangement until I ask them whether they would relish the terms becoming known to those induced to purchase the securities from promoters of this stripe. Usually they admit that mighty few "investors" would care to put money into a business if they knew that the business received only one-half or one-third or one-quarter of the money actually subscribed.

* * *

Now, what's the answer?

The answer is that a great many of those who feel positive that they are entitled to be financed have no claim whatsover on the pockets of other people. Most of those who aspire to raise anywhere from fifty thousand to five hundred thousand or a million dollars of capital cannot offer either bankers or investors any security half as attractive as scores of securities listed on the exchanges and for which there is a market every day of the week. It doesn't seem to be realized by those in search of capital that what they offer usually is risky. For one thing, in the majority of instances the business man is purely a one-man project, depending usually for its success upon the individual seeking the capital, so that if anything were to happen to him the business would collapse.

* * *

There is far too common a notion that we are entitled to expect, not to say demand, that other people should do things for us. We often have the idea that there is no reason why other people should not hand over their money to be used by us. When I am asked, as I am frequently asked, "why shouldn't a rich man like Mr. So-and-so be willing to advance capital to me?" I sometimes reply, "Mr. So-and so has demonstrated that he can handle capital very profitably himself. You have not yet demonstrated that you can handle capital profitably. Why should he hand over any part of his capital to you?"

* * *

Each of us has to create his own influence. Each of has to build up his own reputation. Each of us has to inspire the confidence of others. Each of us must learn to expect little of others. Each of us must learn to paddle his own canoe. If those who know us haven't sufficient faith in us to give us a helping hand, why, in the name of common sense, should we expect outsiders to have more faith in us or to be more friendly disposed towards us?

* * *

All this may sound unsympathetic. It isn't meant to be. But there is widespread need for grasping the cold facts when it comes to trying to get other people to hand over their money to us.

FIRM TONE IN THE SECOND HOUR

Rails Rally in the Latter Part of Forenoon; Steels and Motors Advance

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were irregular in New York at noon, but the market had a firm tone and gains predominated. Rails rallied in the second hour, and the list in general responded. Steels and motors were strong and oils showed little change.

They were steady during the forenoon. Tobaccos were inactive. Locomotive issues advanced. Sugars ruled lower. Trading was quiet, first hour transactions aggregating less than 120,000 shares. Call loans renewed at 5½ per cent. Demand sterling advanced a cent to $3.57¼.

EARLY TREND INDEFINITE.

The trend was indefinite at the opening, first prices showing about as many gains as losses. But there was improvement for a few minutes and this brought out an increased supply of stocks. At the end of half an hour the market was still irregular. It had the same uncertainty that has distinguished it this week, being purely professional in character and reflecting the caution inspired by an extensive short interest in many issues, beside a general disposition to take small profits at once. American Sugar and United Drug were weak at the outset. Others to recede a point or more during the first hour were Central Leather, General Asphalt, Northern Pacific and Texas & Pacific. Studebaker was active and before long it was up two points, while Chandler gained 1½. Motors, in fact, showed group strength, while rails were heavy. Mexican Petroleum soon lost more than a point gain.

MARKET WAS TAME.

It was a tame and uninteresting market during the first half of the morning, and rather narrow in all respects. The trading element is waiting for something to turn up which will furnish impetus for a definite movement. The disposition is still to sell stocks short. As bears have realized about all the profits for many months, and conditions which depressed securities have not materially altered, the logic of the situation seems to justify this attitude. But the market is said to be oversold to an extent which may prove very dangerous to the short interest, in the event of a quick change in conditions. Nothing of the kind seems imminent, however. There is likely to be considerable delay on the part of Congress in taxation and tariff legislation, and business recovery is dependent to a considerable extent upon both. Demand in the stock loan market after the close yesterday was brisk and rates were: Sears Roebuck 1-32 per cent., United Fruit ⅛ per cent., American Sugar 1-16 to ¼ per cent., Virginia Chemical preferred ⅛ per cent., and railroads 4½ per cent. The general rate was 5½ per cent.

BIG PROFIT DAYS ARE GONE, SAYS BANK HEAD

Evans Quotes Chicago Financier as to Prospects for Future of Business

By C. B. EVANS.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—A state of mind now comes on the stage in the play business in the United States. The actor is a bit timid and the spotlight not quite so vivid as some might wish but the new element is unmistakably there. The prediction and probability of more activity in trade in the near future are having their effect on the spirits of the people.

This is seen in both manufacturing and merchandising circles. As President Traylor of the First Trust and Savings Bank says producers are disposed to go ahead with their work and their text is: "If we do not make any profit or even if we make some loss we should not be discouraged, but it is time for us to begin doing things."

QUESTION OF LABOR.

At the very outset one comes up against the question of labor, which has not yet liquidated. Producers will not long maintain much activity if their income is less than their outgo. It would seem that there must be much decline in the prices of service of all kinds before we reach anything like normal.

But on one thing Mr. Taylor insisted, and his ideal will of course be backed up by all of the wisest business men of the country, that is, that the day of big profits has gone by and producers and distributors must be content with little ones.

Back of the improved feeling is the progress in the settlement of many questions in Europe, the comparative scarcity of many kinds of merchandise in the United States and the low prices that many commodities have reached, but perhaps for the moment the effective thing is the decline in interest rates.

A WORLD SHORTAGE.

It is not in the ingenuity of any man to determine definitely whether this decline merely means dull business with which we must be contented for a long period or marks an abundance of capital that will lead Americans to go forward with new enterprise.

All precedents favor the former alternative but we have in this instance a world shortage of all those things which men and women commonly use such as never was seen before. Sometime in the effort to catch up on production and on the creation of new things we shall save a tremendous volume of production and distribution and a grand employment of labor.

A reasonable conclusion is that there will be some revival of trade soon, but that the course of business for a long time yet will be irregular and full confidence will be of slow growth. One reason for this view is that the liquidation of accounts at the banks is not going forward rapidly. Some of the bankers are experiencing great dissatisfaction. Loans are not paid up when due and extensions are necessary because the borrowers have not been able to accumulate anything.

LIVE STOCK LOANS.

The livestock interest which a few months ago was in such trouble appears to be working out gradually. The syndicate formed some weeks ago to help that class of business has already loaned $6,000,000. The member banks are holding loyally to the policy adopted many months ago of reducing borrowing at the Federal Reserve Bank.

The temptation is not very strong for caution is the dominant idea among lenders and the money now loaned at high rates runs chiefly to the large corporations, which are issuing new securities on about the same scale as heretofore. It would seem, in spite of this demand of the corporations as if rates, in open market would go somewhat lower. Indeed on counter loans in Chicago 6½ per cent. is now more common than 7. Brokers here are borrowing little. The fact that stock brokers' loans in New York are only $500,000,000 against $1,750,000,000 in July, 1919, is indicative of the small amount of capital now used in speculation. This statement applies as truly to merchandise as to stocks. In this city the amount of money offered on real estate has increased latterly.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, Aug. 4.—The cotton market opened firm today at an advance of 4 to 15 points. The South continued an active seller of October at the 13 cents level early, but heavy buying by Wall street and commission houses absorbed the offerings and carried that delivery to 13.10 in the first ten minutes, or 22 points above yesterday's close. The purchasing was stimulated by firmness in late advices from Liverpool and bullish crop news from Texas. Opening prices were: October, 13.00, up 11; December, 13.48 to 13.50, up 14 to 16; January, 13.42, up 15; March, 13.68, up 13; May, 13.78, up 13.

TRADING DULL ON BOSTON EXCHANGE

Local Market Shows Little Change; Curb Has Turgid Start, but Improves

At the opening of the Boston market about half of the issues to come out were unchanged and the majority of others showed losses. The market, in fact, had a rather weak start and was narrow and dull. Packing issues had a downward tendency and Swift & Co., the only active one, receded a fraction. Coppers were mixed in movement and there was no first hour trading in New England rails. General Electric advanced 1¾ and U. S. Smelting a point. Among declines were Calumet & Hecla 1 and Wolverine 1.

Fractional losses were shown by American Telephone, Boston Elevated, Calumet & Arizona, Copper Range, International Products, Walworth, Amoskeag and Loew's Theatres. Among issues to make small gains were United Fruit, Mohawk, Utah Metals, North Butte, United Drug common and preferred and National Leather.

TURGID CURB TRADING.

At the opening the Curb trading was turgid. Eight issues sold unchanged at the start and two declined. Boston and Montana and Eureka were the leaders. On initial transactions they brought Wednesday's closing price. At the end of an hour Boston & Montana was up 1 cent at 73 cents and Eureka 7 cents at 49 cents. Among losses were Alpha, 1 cent at 75 cents; Ranier, 1 cent at 4 cents, and Verde Mines 1 cent at 29 cents.

This year's tax rate for Lancaster, Mass., will be $30 against $11 in 1920, and $7 in 1917.

Hudson, Mass., assessors have cut the tax rate for 1921 $7.10 a thousand dollars, it being $25.70 against $32.80 last year.

LEOPOLD MORSE CO. WORKERS ON OUTING

Seven hundred Leopold Morse Company employes cast aside all thought of business today and in ten special trolley cars and a fleet of automobiles went to Norumbega Park for an outing.

At 11:15 o'clock the doors of the big department store were closed. Officials also took part, those to go including President Ferdinand Strauss, Vice-President Julius C. Morse, Treasurer Leon Strauss and Albert Wineberg.

William Murray, president of the Leopold Morse Benefit Association, was chairman of the general committee in charge. There were about 500 men and women from the factories and wholesale department in the merry party, and about 200 persons from the retail end.

Ernest J. Goulston gave a prize to the one winning the most points in the athletic events. There were also two prizes furnished by the Employers' Liability Insurance Company.

Railroad Items

As compared with the preceding week there was an increase of 14,090 in the number of cars loaded with revenue freight on American railroads during the week ended July 23.

The number of freight cars in service increased but 237,162 from the end of 1911 to the end of 1920.

Only seven out of fifty-six Canadian railroads paid dividends last year. Thirty-one paid expenses and twenty-five were operated at a deficit.

June maintenance charges of the Baltimore & Ohio were $5,897,000, which was equivalent to 36.1 per cent. of gross revenues. Last December maintenance took 43.4 per cent. of gross.

During May this year British railways were operated at losses aggregating £9,093,064, against £9,544,460 in April.

WALL STREET GOSSIP

By MONITOR

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Although profit taking cut down the gains which were established in early trading, particularly in the rails and steels, the general tone of the market Wednesday was steady, with the exception of irregularity in one or two groups and a few isolated cases of weakness. Northern Pacific, Great Northern preferred, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and Pennsylvania all shared in the early upturn and subsequent reaction. U. S. Steel crossed 76, but closed at a small net loss. Among the specialties Brooklyn Union Gas, California Packing and Union Oil showed pronounced strength. American Sugar was weak on rumors of impending dividend reduction.

TRADE and industrial advices continue to indicate the slowing up in general business. The figures of R. G. Dun & Company on July failures show an increase over June, with the number of defaults placed at 1,444 and liabilities in excess of $442,000,000. Although the Iron Age reports an improvement in sentiment as a result of an increase in the volume of orders, the transactions in steel products indicate substantially the same low prices current last week. Figures on July pig iron production reflect the smallest output since December, 1903. The production is placed at only 864,555 tons compared with more than 1,464,000 in June and 3,067,000 tons in July last year. On the other hand, according to Dun's index number, wholesale commodity prices rose 2.41 per cent. during July. This is significant as registering the first halt in the decline which began in May last year.

SUGAR stocks were under pressure with American Sugar leading the decline with a break of nearly four points from Tuesday's closing. Naturally, in view of the losses suffered by nearly all sugar companies this year, there has been some doubt as to the maintenance of current dividends. One point discussed in reference to American Sugar involved the possibility that the National Sugar Refining Company, in which the American Company has a large stock interest, might not continue its present annual rate of 10 per cent. It is said that the National Company has earned its dividends for the year but the business conditions may call for conversion of liquid resources.

THE Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company for the second quarter ended June 30, shows a deficit after taxes, interest, etc., of $1,289,293 against a deficit of $1,395,202 in the first quarter and profits of $4,349,498 in the second quarter of 1920.

The junior bonds of the St. Louis and San Francisco Railway have been showing considerable strength for the last few weeks. This is because indications points to the certainty that the interest will be earned and paid on both the accumulative adjustment and income bonds. The interest on the adjustment bonds amounts to $1,182,000 and the requirements for the income bonds amount to $2,000,111. The company's surplus from 1920 together with the surplus for the six months ended June 30 amounts to $5,116,436, thus, leaving a balance over interest payments on these bonds in excess of $1,823,000. The Frisco reports increased traffic and as a result of the wage reduction is expected to make a better showing this year than last when the report was equal to $2.56 on the common stock.

Representatives of the four brotherhoods met in New York Wednesday with a sub-committee representing the presidents of the Eastern railroads to discuss the policy of the officials regarding further wage cuts and overtime. Inasmuch as the sub-committee representing the railroad officials was not impowered to speak for the entire body, nothing was announced at the close of the meeting and probably will not be until the committee in full has considered the matter.

THE presence of a short interest is shown in certain stocks by the premium demand for the loan of certificates for the purpose of making short sales. International Harvester, for instance, is loaning at a profit of 1-8 per cent., American Sugar at 1-32 per cent. and Virginia Carolina Chemical preferred at half per cent. United Drug stock loaned "flat" Wednesday.

Reports current in the street throw some light on the efforts which the management of the General Electric Company is making to do away with the present form of issuing stock dividends in scrip and make this disbursement available for the small stock holders. According to plans now said to be under consideration the company will continue its present 8 per cent. cash dividend and instead of issuing scrip for the stock dividend may devise a new issue of stock, either special preferred or a designated class upon which holders would find it easier to realize. It has been suggested that it might be decided to pay the stock dividend in the form of a preferred stock with a par value of $10 per share. The rumors in connection with the policy under consideration were responsible for a moderate rally in General Electric after an early decline.

The sales of copper, both foreign and domestic account, are estimated at about 75,000,000 pounds. The production of primary copper for the month for domestic refining was about 45,000,000 pounds. The heaviest sales during July occurred in the last week, when about 45,000,000 pounds were sold at prices ranging between 12⅛ and 12 cents delivered. Authorities in the copper trade take the view that these heavy transactions do not represent buying for consumption so much as investment transactions negotiated in view of the low price. Considerable surprise has been experienced over the willingness of producers to sell around the 12-cent level in view of present production costs, but it has been suggested that one of the large interests which figured prominently in the sales is contemplating the purchase of an important copper property, and, therefore, was induced to realize on its metal stocks in order to obtain funds.

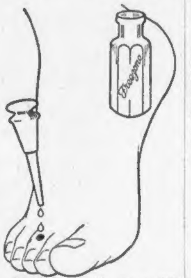
BOY DEAD AFTER FALL UNDER TRUCK

Paul Kaleck, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leopold Kaleck, No. 53 Lamartine street, Jamaica Plain, is dead at the City Hospital as the result of injuries received when the rear wheels of a truck, driven by Timothy G. Noonan and owned by Haffenreffer & Co., ran over his abdomen yesterday afternoon.

The police say the boy was running beside the truck, reaching for some sugar in a bag on the vehicle, when he tripped and fell in the path of the wheels. Noonan was arrested on a charge of manslaughter.

CORNS

Lift Off with Fingers



Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly!

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

MERCHANTS FACE JAIL IN NEW BEDFORD

New Bedford, Aug. 4.—Thomas M. Casey, assistant chief of the field deputies in the Bristol district, announced he would appear before Commissioner Goodspeed this week, and ask for the issuance of warrants for the arrest of more than a score of New Bedford merchants for failure to pay miscellaneous and special taxes.

ORGANIZE TO DRIVE OUT "LOAN SHARKS"

The Massachusetts Industrial Lenders' Association was organized by twenty-five representatives of industrial loan companies throughout the State, at a meeting at Hotel Bellevue. Frank H. Pope, State supervisor of loan agencies, urged the men to drive the "loan shark" out of business.

GIRLS

Prevent Sunburn and Beautify Your Complexion

When you go bathing put liquid Derwillo on your face, hands, arms, neck and shoulders and you instantly have a beautiful rosy white complexion. Water or perspiration does not affect it nor will it rub off on clothing. It stays on all day. It prevents sunburn because it keeps the skin moist and protects it from the sun. Thousands everywhere are using it in preference to face powder. It is invisible and therefore cannot be detected, yet you have a soft, clear, beautiful skin every one "just loves to touch." It instantly obliterates sunburn, freckles, tan, sun spots, and gives you a youthful complexion everybody raves about. Good for shiny nose, too. Try it to-day and if you are not satisfied the department store or druggist from whom you made the purchase will gladly give you back your money.

NOTE—When asked about Derwillo one of our leading druggists said: "Derwillo is meeting with wonderful success and it gives better satisfaction than any beautifier or face powder we have ever sold before." It is not only absolutely harmless, but is an excellent tonic for the skin, and will not stimulate or produce a growth of hair. It is sold under an iron-clad money back guarantee by all department stores and druggists.

READ CAREFULLY SONG TITLE TEST RULES

Following Regulations Govern All Points in Great $6,000 Trial of Skill

The Boston American Songs of the World Title Test is a test of skill and judgment open to all readers of the Boston American, irrespective of age, living in any city or town in New England or Canada.

Two hundred and twenty cash awards will be given by this newspaper to its readers who submit the largest percentage of correct titles to the sixty pictures to be published one each day consecutively (Sundays excepted) in the Boston American.

All employes of the Boston American and their families are absolutely barred from participating in the awards.

The test will consist of 60 pictures, each representing the title of a well-known song, to be printed one each day in the Boston American; the first picture on Wednesday, June 8, 1921.

Participation in any other contest which has been run, which is now running or which may be run by the Boston American will not debar anyone from entering this test.

Every participant or any or all members of a family will be allowed to submit one set of pictures, but each set must contain only ONE TITLE to each picture, and no participant shall be entitled to more than one award and not more than one award shall be given in any one family.

Each and every title must be neatly written or printed on the coupon furnished by the Boston American; or on a page of some book form by itself, accompanied either by the picture furnished by the Boston American, or a pen or pencil copy thereof, and must have the name, residence, etc., of the participant on each title blank.

Do not send your title in "list" form, i. e., do not write titles under one another on a piece of paper.

In case there are not complete sets of correct titles, awards will be given to the person submitting the nearest correct solutions, giving weight to skill and judgment.

In case of a tie awards will be made on the basis of neatness, judgment and accuracy, but if the tie cannot be decided in that way the tied participants will receive similar awards.

Under no circumstances should participants send in their titles before the end of the Test, as any sent in before the last picture is printed will not be considered. KEEP your titles from day to day and at the end of the Test arrange them in numerical order and then send them in all together at one time.

Time will not be a factor in making the awards. The first titles sent in after the Test closes will stand no better than the last submitted.

All titles must be delivered to the Boston American title headquarters, at No. 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass., either by mail or in person within the specified time limit which will be announced later.

All envelopes or packages containing titles must be legibly addressed as follows: "Song Title Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass., P. O. Box 239," and each envelope or package must bear the name and address of the sender legibly written or stamped on the upper left-hand corner.

As all pictures in the Test will contain written or printed matter, if mailed, it is absolutely necessary that the packages be fully prepaid at postal letter rates, as mail of this character goes to the postoffice as first-class matter. The Boston American reserves the right to refuse to consider any sets of titles on which charges for postal delivery are not fully prepaid.

There will be no title or answer book to buy. Lists of Song Titles will be printed in the Boston American. The list appearing will contain among others the correct titles.

Participants who desire further information should address their inquiries to the Song Title Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass. Questions will be answered as far as possible through the columns of the Boston American. If participants desire personal replies, they should enclose sufficient postage for such a reply, or they may phone Main 5180 or call in person.

The Boston American reserves the right to make any change in or addition to these conditions that it may deem necessary for fairly and properly conducting the Test, and the decision of the Boston American Song Title Editor on any question which may arise will be absolutely final, and the entry of a participant is a complete acceptance of all conditions and regulations now made or to be made.

Is the Automobile Boom Dead?

Alvan Macauley Says NO. And He Knows

Copyright, 1921, Star Company

All the world, its industries, its people, felt after the great war as people feel on a ship that has just run into an iceberg. The question then is: "How great is the damage? Are we to sink where we are, or can we get to port somehow, make repairs and go on?"

Mr. Macauley, president of the Packard Motor Company, asks and answers the question as to whether the automobile industry will sink or swim in the current number of Motor, the great automobile authority and exponent of the United States.

The average citizen, without Mr. Macauley's special sources of information, can think out the automobile problem for himself by comparing human beings with birds. Suppose the birds were in trouble, as the human race is now in trouble, after a great war and its disorganization.

What would the birds do, or try to do; what would most interest THEM? They certainly would try to keep THEIR WINGS in flying order.

For, whatever may happen, the one important thing to a bird is to have his wings working well. Failing that, the cat will get him, or he will slowly die, on the dampness of the ground.

The automobile, as Mr. Macauley shows you, is to the man what wings are to the bird. Some day perhaps the average human being will actually depend on flying as the bird does. But that day hasn't come yet. Today THE AUTOMOBILE IS THE WINGS OF THE HUMAN RACE. And, whatever else may happen to that race, it wants to KEEP its wings, able to move about, make the most of opportunity, and the best of conditions whatever they may be.

Every intelligent person knows that no automobile can be properly described as a "pleasure" vehicle. You might as well talk of a bird's wings as "pleasure wings." The bird, of course, enjoys flying, sometimes it flies for the pure fun of flying. But its wings, nine-tenths of the time, are purely BUSINESS wings, helping to do what is necessary. So it is with the automobile, which gives health, relaxation, education, holds families together, makes an hour do the work of four hours.

The automobile is TRANSPORTATION. Here are some figures from Mr. Macauley's article:

> "To get a correct view of the automobile today, it must be looked at as a transportation agent. In 1920 there were, at a moderate estimate, nearly seventy billion passenger miles run by automobiles in this country, a total almost 50% beyond the number of passenger miles of transportation furnished by the steam railroads."

"Seventy billion passenger miles" means that in the automobiles of this country last year the traveling equalled SEVEN HUNDRED MILES FOR EVERY MAN, WOMAN AND CHILD IN THE UNITED STATES. Too bad so many missed their 700 miles.

Those that don't know, including some bankers that discourage industry by tightening credit, speak of the "great cost of the automobile." You might as well talk about the great cost of the goose that laid the golden eggs. Had she eaten five cents' worth of corn a day and laid daily a golden egg worth a hundred dollars, her record would have been no better than that of the automobile industry today. Read accurate figures as to the work that the automobile has done in making farm life, so necessary to the country, more agreeable, and in actually INCREASING FUNDAMENTAL UNITED STATES VALUES. Mr. Macauley says:

> "One-third of all the passenger cars in America are owned by farmers. This use is increasing, and last year two-thirds or thereabouts of all the new cars were sold in the country. These cars give a very large productive value through the time they save, as anyone who has ever lived on a farm knows. Most of them pay for themselves several times over in a single year, and each lasts a number of years.
>
> "This is in production value only. Their value in making farm life more agreeable and in making it possible to keep on the farms the workers who are absolutely necessary if America is to be fed, and if food prices are to be kept down, cannot be measured in dollars and cents. It is enormous.
>
> "There is another gauge on the value of the automobile to the farmer. During the twenty years before the motor came, that is up to 1900, the population of the United States increased at the rate of 2½ per cent., while farm value went up $400,000,000 a year. During the next sixteen years, which had not yet given the farmer the full advantage of motor transportation that has come since, but which did mark the arrival of the passenger car on the farm, the population increased only 2 per cent. a year, but the average farm values increased $1,300,000,000 a year. This means that during twenty years without automobiles the population increased 50 per cent. and farm values 57 per cent., while during sixteen years with automobiles the population increased 33 per cent. and farm values 100 per cent. This gives a difference of about $900,000,000 a year, a total of $14,400,000,000 in value due largely to the automobile, for this one branch of industry alone! The total capital invested in the automobile industry in 1919 had not reached the size of this increase for a single year."

Next to some inconceivable agency that would supply the farms with free fertilizer, free labor and free live stock, nothing could be conceived of that would do more for farm values in this country than has been done by the automobile. Think of more than FOURTEEN THOUSAND MILLION DOLLARS added to land values, by one single agency.

The only real wealth in the country is of course human intelligence and activity. And the only actual property of the working individual is TIME. Mr. Macauley in his extremely interesting article in Motor emphasizes the fact that the work of millions of human beings, from doctors to plumbers, and from statesmen to letter carriers, is vastly increased by co-operation of the automobile. Few realize what the automobile means, to telegraph companies, telephone companies, police and fire departments, public servants of all kinds. The United States Department of Agriculture alone uses more than 2,000 cars and ought to have three times as many, to enable its experts to visit and serve the farmers promptly.

The automobile not only lengthens life by making it possible for a man to do twice, three times and TEN times as much in the hour. It makes life actually longer, by making labor less painful, less wearing on the nerves.

And while it works for this generation, adding to wealth, comfort, efficiency NOW, it works even more effectively for the next generation.

To anybody who imagines that the automobile boom is over, or that it has even seen its best days, we recommend Mr. Macauley's article in the July number of Motor. That article will encourage those engaged in the automobile industry, also some of the weak-kneed, wondering whether they had better buy a car.

If a bird could do only one thing, it would fly. If it had to give up its feet or its wings, it would rather have the wings, for without them it couldn't live at all.

As long as men are MEN, the automobile will continue to boom, to increase in use and in numbers. Don't forget that.

WINNING THE CONFIDENCE OF YOUR CHILDREN

Are you winning the confidence of your child—your son or your daughter—or are you so severe and unrelenting that you inspire fear rather than love.

You ought to know that you cannot put an old head on young shoulders—so do not try it.

You must know that young persons need sympathy from their point of view, and you can be more effective in gaining their confidence if you use sugar rather than vinegar.

Don't forget your own youth and youthful ideas.

Most of them were mistaken notions, but you remember they were dear to you, and there were many things you had to learn by experience.

If the desires of your children are not criminal, and are the result of good, healthy youth, give them apparent leeway, but keep a watchful care at the same time, so as to be on hand should they need you.

Protect them from themselves, but let them use their own wings.

It can be done by a little compromise on both sides; and children are fair, if you appeal to them honestly.

Results to Date of Prohibition

"What Has Prohibition Actually Accomplished to Date?" asked William Randolph Hearst editorially in the Boston American of July 2. One hundred dollars will be paid for the best answer of not more than 150 words received before August 15.

Defeats Its Purpose

Editor Boston American:

Because prohibition restricts the personal liberty of a free nation, it defeats its purpose, and devolves itself into a farcical failure. It prohibits the legal production and consumption of alcoholic beverages, substituting:

A nation of deliberate, defiant law-breakers; conscienceless man-killing rum runners; rich men's cellars amplified against the drought; poor men resorting to subterfuge and home brew; an influx of noxious substitutes that demoralize and kill their victims.

The loss of millions in revenue at an inopportune time is another result with prodigious expenditures in ineffectual efforts to curtail illicit production; jails and hospitals with an appalling quota of victims; a spirit of intense resentiment against the impution of national intemperance implied by the Volstead enactment, and finally, a debilitated national morale.

MRS. HATTIE G. PATTERSON.
No. 161 Commercial street,
Weymouth, Mass.

Helped Canada

Editor Boston American:

Prohibition to my mind has accomplished three, if not four, very important things, as follows:

It has made tens of thousands of law-breakers. It has created an army of rum-runners, who stop at nothing, not even murder. It has increased the permanent American population of Paris more than 50,000. And it has just about paid the Canadian war debt with good American dollars.

A Canadian tourist recently said of prohibition. "Volstead is the greatest friend Canada ever had. He has just about paid our war debt, but personally we in Quebec think prohibition a huge joke." I think, lastly, it has caused more deaths in two years than liquor did in twenty-two previous years, 120 or more in one week during Xmas season in and around Northampton and Holyoke.

PROBLEM OF CHOOSING WIVES AND HUSBANDS

By Nellie Bly

In every mail I receive letters from men who want wives.

And in every mail I receive letters from women who want husbands.

The men are generally widowers either by death or desertion, and have children whom they wish to keep with them. There is no sentiment connected with their proposals. They need a woman to manage their houses, and to care for them and mother their little ones.

A portion of these men looking for wives are young, unmarried men, disgusted with the many girls he meets today. They are men who have ideals of home, of a companion and housewife and of a mother for their children.

The women who write to me in search of husbands are both widows and unmarried girls. Mainly the object is to get a supporter. Though often letters are prompted by loneliness, there are some, also, who are sentimental and have ideals. They do not find in the dancing man of today the being they could love. And many of these girls complain that their acquaintances are dropped because they are familiar in their manners and questionable in their morals.

What Each Seeks

The worth-while girl is looking for a decent man who wants to build a home for himself and raise a family.

The wise man is looking for the girl who wants to stay at home and make a home and cherish and love her husband, and with patience and pride bring up a family.

I have correspondents of both kinds, but yet I will not yield to the request they make of introducing them or bringing them together.

I would not take the responsibility, for I cannot say if a woman would really make a good wife or not, or if a man would prove to be the right sort of a husband. There are so many unhappy marriages now that I shall certainly, as a matchmaker, keep my finger out of the pie.

If I could be sure of finding wives like a certain country girl who wrote, I would not hesitate for a moment to bring them in contact with honorable men who wish to marry. But it is the knowledge, truly sad, that many girls are men-wreckers and home-wreckers makes me pause.

Never would I take the responsibility upon myself of possibly wrecking a man's life by introducing him to the girl who marries for a meal ticket or a jazz partner. If I had some place where I could put girls on probation and test them out as housewives, I would have part of the problem solved.

Deep Problem

It is a deep and terrible problem. Some men in desperation marry the first woman that comes along in order to get a mother for their children and a housekeeper. Almost invariably they get someone who can neither keep house nor be a mother to the little ones. Cruelty and incompetency in the house brings misery and wreckage to all.

There must be some solution. But I don't know it. There must be some way of bringing the competent, worthy housewife and mother in touch with the husband and father. There are good women who would be glad and happy to take these places in households, but they must be found and tested and proved.

I cannot take the responsibility and will not. I cannot help select wives for husbands and mothers for children. I sympathize with them; I know their desperate need, but I am unable to help.

India's Worth

India means more to England these days than she has ever meant before. In the old days, Hindu gold used to satisfy the British. Rajahs and maharajahs used to pay tribute in coin to their British rulers and the British were content to let it go at that. The gold found its way to London at last, and helped to make it a rich city.

But India takes on a new meaning to the British these days. Once England could have lived without the aid of India; today India is part of her very life. India promises independence to Great Britain.

The two greatest needs of the British Empire, with the single exception of food, are cotton and oil. In India the British are producing both of these necessities. The time will come, if the British have their way, when Indian cotton will keep England's mills busy and her peoples clothed and that time as well when Indian oil will keep British ships lacing the seas. Without India there could be no Great Britain.—August Hearst's International.

DO NOT PUT OFF YOUR LIFE TILL TOO LATE

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

WHAT are you waiting for? Why not live Now?

Do not postpone your living or the pursuit of your purpose. Do not get the Tomorrow habit, nor enroll your name as member in the large Going-To-Do Club.

Act in the living present! Find out now what you want to be and to do, and go ahead. Be it, and do it—now!

And do not waste your spirit in rainbow-chasing, or in hunting the pots of gold supposed to be buried where the rainbow touches the earth.

Are you one of those wise artists in living, who not only know that the pot of gold—success—lies buried where the rainbow-dream touches the earth-reality, but are willing to work and dig, in order to bring the gold to light and to make your dream come true?

Negative Failure

Millions upon millions of lives, in every generation, are a negative failure, like buds which never open; mainly because they never waken from the dream state.

Come, wake up! It is not too late for you to take up the reins and to drive, for the fun of the driving and the joy of the living, this steed called Purpose, towards the fleeting goal, called Achievement!

Heigho! how swiftly we move these days! Even the suggestion of a galloping horse is "slow," as a figure of speech, when once our eyes are used to the automobile and our minds are accustomed to the airplane.

All the more reason these days for self-rebuke and self-stimulus, if you realize that you are not in the race or you are lagging behind, for lack of definite purpose and the definite will to attain.

Cease Railing

Cease railing at fate or bewailing your luck. Do not even stop to blame yourself or to berate conditions. Face facts—and proceed!

Make the best of the worst, and you will be amazed to find how your courageous spirit conquers conditions and you are living the masterful life.

One probable reason for the common admiration of the grafter and even the criminal, is because they dare to do,—no, not what we would like to do but whatever they deem necessary in order to accomplish their purpose.

You would think that we were all wicked, or would wish to be, judging from the general, if unspoken, tributes of praise to those who achieve and arrive—whether we approve of their purpose or not.

Of course, this is not meant to express indifference to the character of aims and objects; for it certainly makes all the moral difference in the world whether your aims are bad or good, destructive or constructive.

But this is meant to be a plea for Purpose as such, and a protest against the common postponement of life.

How many men say they are going to take it easy when they are fifty—and they have worked themselves to death when they reach forty-nine?

Not that fifty is any better age than forty or eighty for retiring; but that it is foolish to postpone the enjoyment of leisure, which can be made fruitful even in youth and sweet at any age.

Dies In Harness

Another man "threatens" to take time for good reading or music or art in general, when he can afford the time for such worthwhile interests; and he dies like a drudging horse in harness, his eyes still on the earth which is soon to claim him.

Do not postpone your life. Find out now what you want—and go after it!

Contend to the uttermost for your life's set prize, be it what it will!

Democracy asserts that each of us counts. Further, Democracy gives freedom and equality—recognizes that you are free to be equal to the best.

Whatever else you may be or do, make sure that, in the race of life, you are not merely an Also Ran.

Be in the running always, head up and purposeful, your eyes on the goal, and that goal a Noble Success!

The Doubting Thomases

There had been a prolonged drought and the colored clergyman had summoned his congregation to pray for rain. For a while he looked at them all in silence. Then, lifting indignant hands, he shouted, "De lack ob faith ob yo' niggahs is scandalous and sinful. Heah we hab come together to beg de Lord to stop de drought and send us rain an' not one ob yo' mis'rable sinners had faith enough to bring an umbrella!"
